City council will get down to business Jan. 8

By FRANK GEORGE

PUBLIC HEARINGS on the First Murphy project, Cocogelato restaurant, Jon Hagstrom's restaurant and Robert Murphy's condominium project will highlight the Jan. 8 city council meeting.

Brian Congleton, representing the First Murphy Group, will present plans for renovation of the 89-year-old house, which include landscaping of a proposed park. Congleton said the project would be completed by the end of the year if the council approves the plan and construction goes smoothly.

The 820-square-foot house was the first constructed by M.J. Murphy, beginning the builder's long career which was to greatly influence the architectural look of Carmel.

Preservationist Enid Sales said the First Murphy Group must raise from $30,000 to $40,000 to begin construction on the project this spring. She said up to $100,000 will be needed to complete it, but the group will cut costs through donated services.

Sales, who is contracting the project, said the house will be used as a resident-oriented community meeting place. She said locals could go to the Sixth Avenue and Mission Street location to play cards, read and socialize. Bulletin boards will be posted in the building and light refreshments will be available, Sales said.

Projected plans for the park include a Devendorf Park-style restroom facility, according to Sales, so the blue outhouses at the site will soon be history. Hall Landscape Design of Pacific Grove is drawing plans for the landscaping, and Scott Hall said patios will be situated behind the house. Rocks, boulders and pathways will be included in an attempt to recapture the original Murphy lot character, Hall said.

Michael Cox and Tom Gladney of Carmel Remodeling are sub-contracting for the remodeling.

"Everyone looks at that house and says 'Why do you want to restore that?' We plan to show that the house doesn't look anything like it originally did," said Congleton. "It's going to look terrific when it's restored."

Congleton explained the house originally had a cedar-shingled hip roof which made it more attractive.

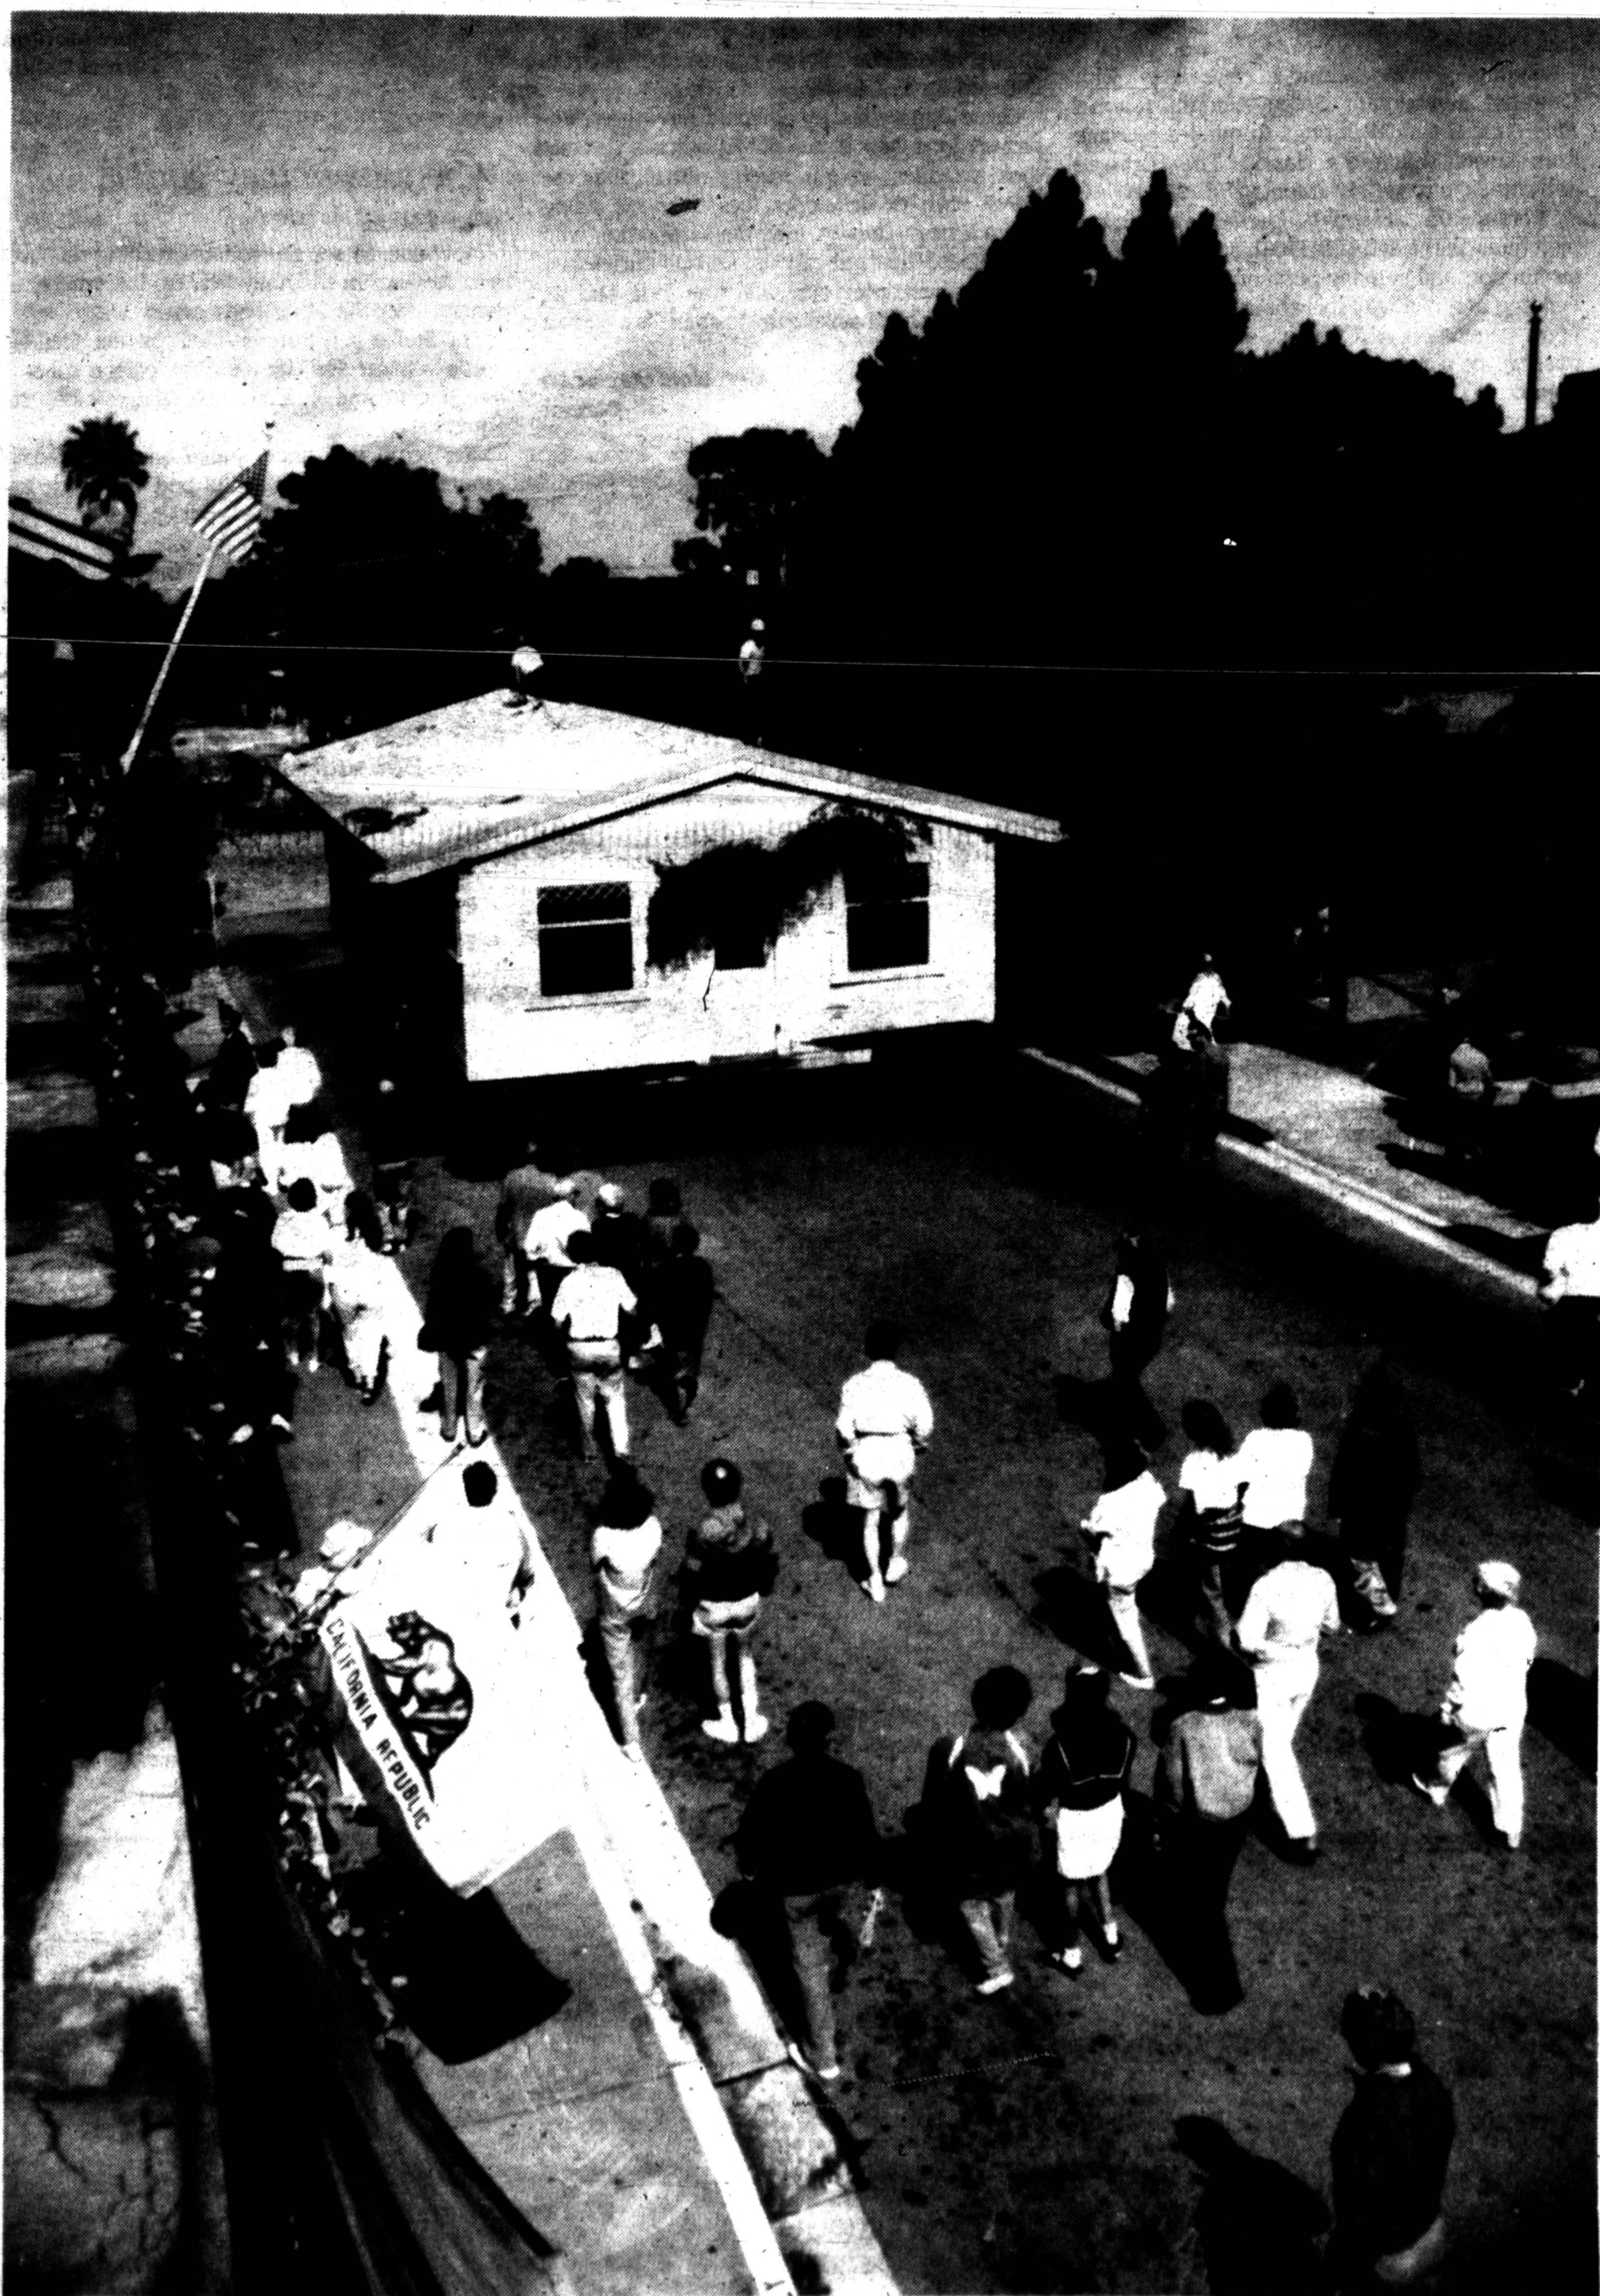

With the city council's approval, the house was moved from its original location on Mission Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues last June. The property had been purchased by Stella and Joseph Bason earlier in the year, and they had planned to remove or demolish the home to build a new retail space.

Stella Bason donated the home to the First Murphy Group, who raised the $16,000 needed to pay for the move.

M.J. Murphy built the house for his mother and sisters in 1902 when he was 17 years old. Over the next 40 years, Murphy was Carmel's primary builder — once responsible for the construction of 70 percent of Carmel's homes.

IN OTHER action, the council will hear an appeal by Cocogelato owner Jay Wiener. Wiener wants to sell soups and sandwiches.

THERE WENT the neighborhood. The First Murphy home wheeled down Sixth Avenue in June, and the city council will hear proposals for its renovation at its Jan. 8 meeting. The council will also view plans for landscaping the First Murphy park, which will cover three parcels, starting at the Harrison

Memorial Library parking lot on the corner of Sixth and Lincoln leading to the church lot further up the street. (Mac McDonald photo.)

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letters to the editor are welcome. Views on all matters are acceptable, following the guidelines of good taste. While there is no limit on length, brevity is encouraged. Letters are subject to editing for style and length. Each letter must contain name, address and signature. A phone number is needed for verification only. Anonymous letters are not accepted.

Special postal service

Dear Editor:

A large bouquet of red long-stemmed American Beauty roses for tender loving and kindness; long-stemmed pure white roses for joy and happiness given, contained in a beautiful Waterford vase of rare and proficiency of service should be presented to the management and personnel of the post office in Carmel-by-the-Sea at Fifth and Dolores.

As a senior citizen living alone with my pet Lhasa Apso and a resident of Carmel-by-the-Sea for just a year — but a lovely year — I am constantly amazed at the personal, loving attention and sincere caring and warmth expressed by the personnel each time I pick up my mail. They make you feel very special indeed, even at this busy time of the year when they are so rushed.

Recently I had a birthday and was too ill to pick up my mail. David Maradei, post master, took it upon himself to deliver my birthday mail and packages. It made my birthday very special to me. This very kind favor personifies the special flavor of this lovely village and the wonderful people who live and work here.

I believe we all are very indebted to the management and personnel of this very special post office and I want to publicly express my sincere thank you! God Bless!

Trees give life

Dear Editor:

Even nice people can be surprisingly mean about trees.

Now the state parks department's "resource ecologists," who you would think would favor trees and the life-support they give humans, want to destroy over 55 of them, including some giants, at Monastery Beach.

To make room for a parking lot, the state would put the chain saw to 44 eucalyptus trees, ranging in size from 38 inches to 10 inches in diameter; 11 willows, ranging from 10 inches to 6 inches in diameter, and additional smaller trees. This, obviously, is an historic grove, adjacent to the also historic Bay School.

Nearby neighbors who bitterly oppose the parking lot say it could just as well go the treeless south end of the beach.

Why this intended massacre of trees? State parks has a statewide program to remove non-native plants. That is why last May a whole row of attractive acacias (Acacia longifolia, Sydney Golden Wattle), were demolished at Carmel River State Beach. A rotting heap, the trees still lie next to the bare sand bank where they once offered shelter to birds and screened the parking lot.

One green billowy mound of acacias remains at the beach, providing shelter from ocean winds — for now — for beach visitors. But beachgoers need fear not. When the green mound is gone, the toilet building will remain as a possible wind-screen for those who choose to hunker behind it.

"They're not native trees," say the critics, with a sniff. And so persons of races not indigenous to California (all races came here from someplace else), disparage tree species which have been here for a century and a half.

"They're dirty," they say. And so human beings, who themselves confer their wastes daily upon Earth's ecosystem, denigrate trees because they shed leaves, bark or other growth products.

"They're weed trees." And so parks department experts itch to take the axe to cultivated varieties of valuable trees that were planted by earlier settlers and even other parks experts for a specific purpose.

"They're just no good." And so human animals, who breathe in oxygen and exhale carbon dioxide, ignore at their peril the life support they get from trees, which take in carbon dioxide and release oxygen.

Let's one and all, resource ecologists included, bemoan the destruction of the rain forest in far places of the globe. And turn a blind eye to the programmed slaughter of life-supporting trees in our own backyard.

Age of the bulldozer

Dear Editor:

Reading David Leland's interview with Caltrans' unrepentant Gregg Albright (Carmel Pine Cone, Dec. 18), brings to mind a passage from Lewis Mumford's classic, The Highway and the City, page 247 (Mentor Ed. 1964).

"Perhaps our age will be known to the future historians as the age of the bulldozer and the exterminator; and in many parts of the country the building of a highway has about the same result upon vegetation and human structures as the passage of a tornado or the blast of an atom bomb... Since the engineer regards his own work as more important than the other human functions it serves, he does not hesitate to lay waste to woods, streams, parks, and human neighborhoods in order to carry his roads straight to their supposed destination."

Give a hoot

Dear Editor:

In his letter to the editor (Dec. 18 Carmel Pine Cone), Mr. Philip Foss criticizes my placing the safety, health, and welfare of people ahead of plant and animal life.

Although Mr. Foss and I widely disagree on this issue, I believe we agree on one aspect. Both of us give a hoot that the great horned owls which live in Hatton Canyon and along Highway 1, not be deprived of the trees from where they hoot.

Thirty-two years ago, when I built my home adjacent to Highway 1, state and county officials assured me that Highway 1 would never be widened, and the trees near my home would be safe. When Mr. Foss occupied his home adjacent to Hatton Canyon, he should have known that the trees near his home would not be safe.

Now that Mr. Foss is faced with the possibility that "his" trees will be lost temporarily (they are destined to be replaced), he is understandably concerned about his "welfare," which translates into loss of property value.

Now that I am faced with the possibility that "my" trees will be permanently lost and replaced with a 16-foot high roadbed retaining wall (two car lengths from my home), not only am I concerned about my "welfare," but I fear for my "safety and health!" A two and one-half foot high K-rail barrier would be the only protection from a vehicle crashing onto my roof and mitigating an intolerable increase of noise and pollution.

Would sincere and caring people publicly fault me for putting the safety and health of my family ahead of that of an owl?

If the courts are called upon to decide the fate of either the freeway or widening Highway 1, they could determine that neither project go forward, which is apparently Mr. Noel Mapstead's goal since he could care less whether Highway 1 is widened or not.

Oh happy day! Mr. Foss and I could enjoy the hoots of the great horned owls for the rest of our days. If we could hear them above the hoots of an outraged community.

William Thies

Safety first?

Dear Editor:

Is the letter-writer who calls Noel Mapstead callous about traffic safety more upset about the one fatality on Highway 1 in our area in the last five years (a single-car late-night drunk driver), than about the 20 dead on Highway 1 at Moss Landing; seven dead on Route 68; 20 dead on Route 101 at Prunedale; seven on Route 156 at Castroville and three on Holman Highway?

These Highway Patrol statistics were presented in large format along with a mass of other information during the four-month-long exhibit which Noel Mapstead and many other concerned citizens presented to the public at the gallery space on Dolores and Sixth Streets donated by Ted Leidig.

These dangerous roads could have been improved long ago if our public officials had set their priorities on our safety, rather than the gravy train of developer fees they see riding down Hatton Canyon. Has the letter-writer who calls Noel Mapstead callous, lobbied our elected representatives for our safety as long and as seriously as he? I believe my husband is owed an apology.

Mrs. Noel Mapstead

Serious side of life

Dear Editor:

In these days of too much or too little food, of ice, ice cream, or no warm place to sleep, of jolly times for some and sad times for others, most publications emphasize joy and holiday happiness. Perhaps it is well to consider (other than in headlines), the serious side of our lives. With that in mind here is some verse on:

The Tragedy of War
...WAR, THE RED ANIMAL
WAR, THE BLOOD-SWOLLEN GOD
Stephen Crane

For those of us who have seen other wars
When families are torn apart and some
Have gone to fill the harvest of the dead —
While others wait and hope so hopelessly
With love and anguish — peace a vain reprise;
With fathers, mothers, loved ones seen through tears
This strange disease, malignancy that haunts
Our deepest love, the very core of being:
Now desecration in a desert war
That might not have an end, except in hate —
We know the destruction of the mind, the soul,
Those losses that this monster surely takes;
Oh yes, the heart breaks slowly, — oh so slowly but it breaks —

The Leopard Syndrome

Dear Editor:

This Persian Gulf affair looks increasingly like the leopard syndrome.

When a baboon leader feels his dictatorship slipping he hopes, in his simple baboon heart, for a leopard. With a leopard out there he can count on his erstwhile troublemakers bonding, adrenalin flowing, pulse quickening, snapping to attention, ready to do or die for dear old Baboonland.

But it has to be a real leopard. Baboons don't concoct leopards. But we do, we human primates, often from the unlikely materials. With no more Shah of Iran we hand pick Saddam Hussein to be our Persian Gulf policeman. We sell him all the arms he wants, including, probably, chemical weapons — we certainly produce them generously. Our ambassador assured him we had "no opinion" as to Arab-Arab conflicts, like his disagreement with Kuwait.

So, trusting in our support, or at least acquiescence, he got carried away, and, instead of a little Gulf access and a couple of islands, he went for the whole hog.

And our leader, beset with economic disaster, starving and homeless millions, rotten ghettos, drug addiction, etc., had to have a leopard. Hussein, arrogant and mean, was the perfect candidate.

Now the adrenalin is flowing, hearts beat faster, hundreds of thousands of our young are poised out there, ready to do or die for the American way of life.

So, are we Americans human beings with a brain in our heads, or a pack of baboons?

Where have they gone?

Dear Editor:

How nice to see the robins invading this area and feeding on the holly berries, but where, oh where have the other birds gone?

The Stellar jay, Rufous-sided towhee, Henderson's warbler and the band-tail pigeon seem to be absent and I also miss those cute tree squirrels.

The scrub jay, finch, junco and the graceful mourning dove are plentiful and very welcome too, but where have the others gone?

Come on back, guys — we miss you.

Ulterior Motives

Dear Editor:

Some local historians are obviously so bent on embarrassing their competitors that they'll stoop to any depths of slander and distortion of facts to support their contentions.

The recent campaigns by Rick Wilkerson and Elizabeth Barrett to deny the existence of a Carmel Valley post office in 1889 have exposed both of them as trash artists rather than historians. The fact that they would vilify historians like myself, as well as the civic leaders of Carmel Valley, over such a minor issue suggests that they have ulterior motives.

If Mr. Wilkerson hadn't addressed the Carmel Valley History Society so belligerently when this issue first arose, he might have been permitted to view the History Society's photocopy of the ledger page from the U.S. Post Office's archives which states, all on the same line, that the post office designated "Carmel" was located at "White Oak" and opened in 1889, then closed in 1890.

Evidently, Elizabeth Barrett wasn't allowed to view this document either, although half of the ledger page was published in the centennial edition of the Carmel Valley Sun, and the whole document in the history society's possession was viewed by many of the civic leaders who put on the 1989 centennial celebration.

Unfortunately for Mr. Wilkerson and Ms. Barrett, I can't agree with their vitriolic demands that the entire document should be published, not that they deserve to see the history society's photocopy after all their unethical slanders and unprofessional distortions of documented facts.

Bicycle shop approved, church addition nixed

By FRANK GEORGE

THANKS TO the Carmel Planning Commission, Carmelites may be seeing more bicycles and fewer cars on village streets in the very near future.

In a unanimous decision at the Dec. 19 meeting, the commissioners approved Ron Allen's request to open a bicycle shop on the east side of Lincoln Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues.

Under conditions of the approval, not more than 36 bikes will be rented out at one time, while a maximum of eight bicycles will be distributed per group. Advertisements or identifying marks will not be allowed on the two-wheelers, and in an effort to prevent congestion and to protect privacy, cyclists will be discouraged from touring particular sections of the city.

"I think it'd be wonderful to get people out of their cars and onto bicycles," said Sue Buchholz of Carmel, who heads community relations for the Monterey Bay Aquarium. "It's real hard to breathe fresh air if you're outside on the street, considering all the cars around."

In addition to from rentals, Allen's shop will also feature bicycle sales, repairs and accessories. It is scheduled to open early this month, and the Cortile San Remo site was formerly occupied by a leather apparel store.

Allen, who lives in Carmel, also owns a bicycle shop on Cannery Row in Monterey, and he rents bikes from The Lodge at Pebble Beach.

In other action at the meeting, the commission denied a bid by the Carmel Presbyterian Church for an office addition. Although the majority of the commissioners favored the church's proposal, city statutes state that five "yes" votes are needed for a use permit.

Commissioners John Kennedy, Brian Congleton, Philip Coniglio and Lindsay Hanna voted with the majority, while Chairwoman Carla Ramsey, Vice Chairman Stephen Poohar and Commissioner Barbara Lysle dissented.

Calling it a "land use issue," Poohar said the expansion had not been contemplated in the church's original permit, which termed it a "small neighborhood church." The permit was issued in 1954, and amended in 1963.

Ramsey concurred with Poohar, citing other church expansion rulings and adding that she did not reach her decision because she's "anti-church."

A 1963 amendment to the use permit stated the building's floor area should not exceed 12,500 square feet. Rick Tooker, assistant planner, said the add-on would increase the floor area to 12,700 square feet, creating the need for yet another amendment to the permit.

Representing the church, Stanley Krugman of Carmel said the expansion of an upstairs office would have allowed the relocation of two employees, which could improve communications among church staffers. He said the addition also would help visitors who sometimes can't locate staff members.

Calling it a "very dynamic church," Congleton noted that Carmel Presbyterian offers three services each Sunday. He said the services impact the neighborhood, but he didn't think the addition would create further congestion. The church is located on Ocean Avenue at Junipero Street, and Krugman, who is a member of the church's management committee, said he will appeal the decision to the city council at its Feb. 5 meeting.

IN OTHER business, the commission unanimously approved Donald and Diane Kremer's application for a new two-story home on the west side of Monte Verde between 13th and Santa Lucia.

David Meblin, who owns the house directly to the north of the Kremer property, objected to the plans at a meeting earlier in December. Meblin said he has a hearing problem and he complained that he couldn't hear the proceedings. The commission then decided to allow him to listen to tapes of the meeting and present a written argument at the next meeting.

Meblin said he does not approve of the plans because the second story will interfere with his viewshed and block out sunlight to his top floor. The Kremers argued they had presented their plans to Meblin long before the hearings. But in his statement, Meblin said he had warned them that he would fight the request even then.

Although the commission OK'd the new house and the subsequent demolition of an existing home, Meblin further complained the Kremer's new driveway will encroach upon his property.

But Diane White, city planning director, said encroachments are not issues that can be decided by the planning commission. She said such issues have been brought up at meetings in the past, but the city attorney has always advised against any rulings on them.

The encroachment issue is something the Kremers and Meblin will have to discuss with their lawyers, White said. Don Kremer then said he and his wife should bring it up with Meblin "at another place and time."

City survey zeroes in on business owners' views

By FRANK GEORGE

CARMEL BUSINESS owners will be asked questions about leases, costs and tenant longevity in a survey circulated by the city.

The results of the questionnaire will be published and used in the Commercial District Zoning study. Members of the newly appointed Tenant-Landlord Committee will also ponder the responses.

The deadline for responses to the mail-out survey is Friday, Jan. 18, and postage-paid envelopes with return addresses have been provided.

Questions on success strategies, size, location, rent provisions, inventory, quality of work force, government regulations and future plans are also asked in the survey.

The Commercial District Zoning study has been made in response to an influx of rezone requests and appeals at planning commission and city council meetings. Clint Eastwood, who wants his new building on San Carlos near Sixth partially rezoned, made an appearance at one of the hearings.

The Tenant-Landlord Committee was proposed by the council at its October biennial budget meeting. The group will discuss rental problems within the business district and its first meeting will take place Jan. 17.

The zoning study was requested by the city council at its Nov. 6 meeting.

A press release distributed by the city states that responses to the questionnaires are greatly appreciated.

The questionnaires were mailed by the city on Dec. 28. Shopowners who failed to receive a survey and those who have any questions should contact the Department of Community Planning and Building at 624-6835.

School officials stress added revenue importance

By DAVID LELAND

CARMEL UNIFIED School District officials this week stressed the importance of a myriad of much-needed capital improvements for area schools, despite announcing that a special parcel tax election has been delayed for three months.

Originally slated for March 5, the special election, which would levy an annual fee of $80 per parcel within the district, will most likely take place June 4, according to CUSD Supt. Bob Infelise.

The date will not become official until the CUSD board of trustees convenes to discuss the issue. The board has until Feb. 2 to call for a June election.

"We owe it to all school children in the district to ensure the district has done everything in its power to make certain this measure passes," Infelise said. "We simply wanted to make sure we had more time to properly educate the public about the measure."

CUSD officials claim that, with decreased state funding to schools, a parcel tax is the only effective way to combat aging facilities in the district.

Proposed capital improvement projects include asbestos removal; school bus and other service vehicle purchases; repair and replacement of obsolete heating, plumbing and lighting systems; grounds improvement and replacement of outdoor and indoor classroom equipment.

Officials estimate the cost for capital improvements to be more than $3.5 million.

Infelise is only too aware of the importance of actively parlaying information to area residents.

"Last time it (pre-election work) was low-key; we didn't perceive any opposition," said Infelise, who during that election concentrated solely on getting those who favored the measure to the polls.

Almost two years ago, a similar parcel tax failed to garner the necessary two-thirds votes to become law. Voters effectively nixed the measure when it gathered just 59.1 percent of the "yes" votes. The main area of opposition occurred in Carmel.

This time, Infelise vowed, things will be different.

"We're going to have a high-profile campaign that will reach out to every participant in the community," he said.

Citizens for Carmel Schools, lead by chairman John Lamb and staffed by parents, teachers and administrators, will attempt to spread a grass-roots campaign, Infelise said.

"We'll try to get peers talking to peers," he said.

TWO AREAS lacking support during the last parcel-tax bid occurred with senior citizens on fixed incomes and people who seemingly had nothing to gain from spruced-up schools.

The latter sector may be more affected than they think, according to Vance Baldwin, assistant CUSD superintendent.

"We're convinced that good schools enhance property values and produce good citizens," he said. "If you don't pay for these kids to get a good education, you'll pay for it someplace else."

A poor education often results in wayward children becoming wayward adults on welfare or in prison — both options cost each taxpayer more than $80 annually, Baldwin said.

Regarding seniors on fixed incomes who could be burdened by the tax, Infelise said the committee is exploring methods of rates that would "benefit senior citizens."

It should be noted that the district is also marketing three surplus properties in Carmel Valley in an effort to raise money.

That land includes 20 acres on Scarlett Road, east of Mid-Valley Shopping Center; 10 acres across the river from the Mid-Valley Shopping Center; and 10 acres east of Carmel Valley Village.

The value of the land will be assessed early this year, Baldwin said.

Nevertheless, Baldwin assured The Pine Cone that a parcel tax must be passed to continue providing a safe atmosphere for students.

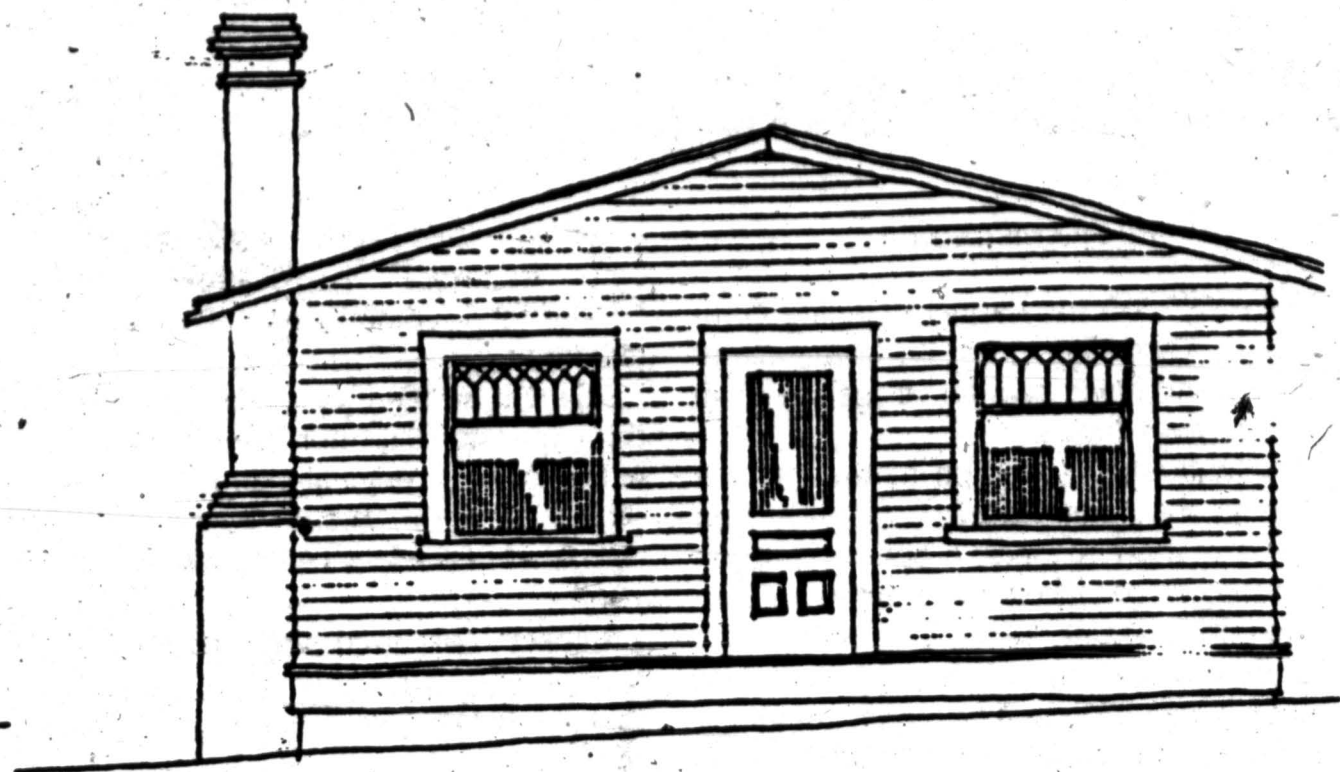

"The needs are still there; they are more serious today than they were two years ago," he said. "We still don't see any other way out than the parcel tax."

CUSD SUPT. Bob Infelise has vowed to wage an aggressive parcel-tax campaign to help finance aging school facilities.

ARCHITECT M.J. Murphy's contribution to the shaping of Carmel's village fabric is said to equal any person involved in the shaping of the city — even the trees he planted down Ocean Avenue bespeak his notoriety.

Shown here in this artist's rendering are two perspectives of the early post-Victorian clapboard bungalows for which Murphy gained attention. His style can be witnessed by the uncluttered facade and prominent hip roof with closed eave and finished cornice. During its Jan. 8 meeting, the Carmel City Council will consider renovating the home, which is located on city property at the corner of Sixth Avenue and Lincoln Street.

Council to review appeals at Tuesday, Jan. 8 meeting

at his Ocean Avenue ice cream and confections shop.

The San Jose resident's proposal was previously rejected twice by the planning commission and once by the council.

In an Aug. 8 decision, the commission denied the expansion because city code prohibits the sale of other food products in establishments specializing in frozen desserts. At a Sept. 15 appeal to the city council, Wiener's appeal was denied and he was directed to apply for a full-service restaurant permit, which would allow the sale of hot food as well as ice cream and candies. At a Nov. 28 planning commission meeting, the commissioners denied the permit, saying they would approve only a sit-down type restaurant.

Also on the Jan. 8 agenda, the council will hear an appeal by Comstock homeowner Jon Hagstrom. Hagstrom's bid for a lot-split was denied by the commission at its Dec. 12 meeting.

Hagstrom wants to divide his property at Casanova and Palou streets so he can sell the other house on the parcel if he has to move. He wants to keep and maintain the 700-square-foot 1929 Hugh M. Comstock-designed home, but he says he could not afford to do so without the earnings from the sale of the other house.

The commission denied the request because the split would create a nonconformity, as the Comstock parcel would be under the 4,000-square-foot minimum lot size.

In other business, the Carmel Residents Association (CRA) is appealing the Nov. 28 planning commission approval of the 22-unit Carmel Viejo project on the west side of Junipero between Third and Fourth.

A spokesman for the CRA said the organization has a number of objections to the project, including a range of environmental concerns. The spokesman added the group also wonders if the project is in accordance with the City's General Plan.

The plans include an underground garage and two affordable housing units. The addition of the affordable housing units allows a greater site density than normally permitted.

AREA SUPERVISOR Karin Strasser Kauffman believes that inter-governmental cooperation will be needed during the '90s for the peninsula to maintain its quality of life.

Karin Strasser Kauffman proposes bold changes

By DAVID LELAND

IF 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman's wish comes true for the New Year, it could mean a major revamping of government as we know it today.

Put simply, the supervisor believes that the time has come for varying agencies to work in concert to solve problems such as traffic congestion, dwindling water resources and air quality.

"In the past we have been exceedingly optimistic on how far resources will stretch," said Strasser Kauffman, serving her second term in office. "Not everybody can have whatever they want. We will have to share resources and planning."

The Monterey Peninsula is governed by several land use plans, city councils, planning commissions, the Monterey County Board of Supervisors and districts such as those dealing with fire protection and air pollution.

To be sure, Strasser Kauffman's intent may be based on future needs, but she may be ahead of her time on a practical level.

For example, the supervisor suggests that numerous land-use plans, which often speak of the number of hotels which may be built in an area, may have to be amended for the good of the community.

"We will have to work together," she said. "Some may have to share the power more than they have in the past and more than they would like to now. (But) the cumulative effect (of the plans) is more than the community can bear."

The obvious downside to limiting visitor accommodations is reduced hostelry taxes, which compose a large portion of local budgets.

That fact has already come home to roost with the board of supervisors, which has not approved any hotels for unincorporated portions of the county during the past year.

Task force explores ways to combat substance abuse

By DAVID LELAND

AN AMBITIOUS five-year county master plan aimed at reducing drug and alcohol abuse is now at the public input stage.

Under the leadership of the Monterey County Health Department's alcohol and drug programs division, a 40-member task force composed of otherwise-diverse segments of the community in May began exploring ways to cope with the problem of substance abuse.

"What makes this (study) unique is the cross sector," said Bruce Campbell, staff services analyst, referring to cooperation between the legal community, businesspeople, religious leaders and educators. "They feel like they are building something together."

Indeed, Monterey County was one of the first counties in the state to form such an advisory group. Forty-four of the state's 58 counties are currently preparing master plans.

"This will shape the direction of drug and alcohol effectiveness," said Campbell, adding that a bi-product of the effort could be that funding from major corporations is channeled into one cohesive plan.

The idea began with a state Senate bill adopted three years ago designed to formulate a better understanding of the problem.

"The law is based on the belief that for drug and alcohol problems to be solved, a comprehensive and cooperative effort must be made at every level of government, as well as in the community and the home," said Jody Parsons, project coordinator for the county health department. "Monterey County is engaged in a unique effort to reduce the devastating consequences of alcohol and drug-related problems."

The Monterey County Alcohol and Drug Master Plan Advisory Body, chaired by Elgie Bellizio, recently retired executive director of Sunrise House in Salinas, will present its work to the Monterey County Board of Supervisors sometime in June.

In addition to seeking public input, the advisory committee has conducted telephone and written surveys to help identify priority areas of need.

Six public forums will take place throughout the county to gather ideas.

Three questions will be asked at each forum.

1) What are the issues and problems related to alcohol and drug use and abuse in your community?

2) What specific activities and services should be available in your community to promote healthy lifestyles and address the problems of alcohol and drug use and abuse?

3) What public policies, local laws and community efforts need to happen over the next five years to reduce the problems?

Results from the forums will be contained in the final edition of the master plan.

"The law is based on the belief that for drug and alcohol problems to be solved, a comprehensive and cooperative effort must be made at every level of government, as well as in the community and the home."

— Jody Parsons

The first public forum will take place between 7 and 9 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 10, at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula.

For more information on the master plan or future forums call 647-7920.

Knowledge of CPR could save lives

MORE THAN 70 percent of all CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) rescues occur in the home on an individual known by the rescuer.

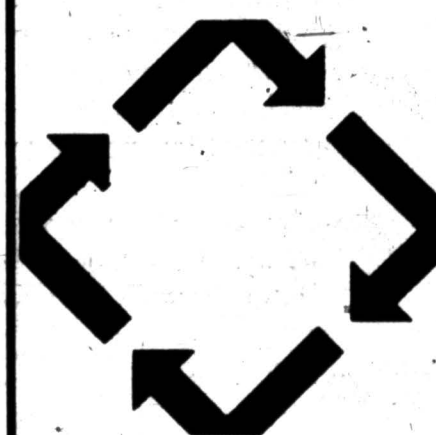

Statistics show that more than 650,000 people in the United States died from heart attacks in 1986 and that heart disease is the leading cause of death in Monterey County.

On the other hand CPR saves more than 250 lives a day; the more people that know CPR, the more lives that can be saved.

With that in mind the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross offers CPR classes monthly all year.

Classes are held at the Carmel Red Cross house at Eighth and Dolores. Classes include demonstrations and teaching of the Heimlich maneuver. Cost is $20 for the eight-hour class. A certificate will be presented upon completion.

For more information call the Red Cross at 624-6921.

Supervisor suggests groups learn to work in concert

"We're protecting the environment and protecting resources, but we're also not able to garner the money it takes to deliver essential services," Strasser Kauffman said.

Witness reduced spending in social services and mental health by the county during the past year.

"We've cut all the fat," said Strasser Kauffman, adding that the county could lose an additional $6 million in state funding in the coming fiscal year.

Still, the supervisor said the county is in sound fiscal shape and will continue to provide services to the needy.

"Those who are most helpless should be protected," she said. "We're the final safety net."

STRASSER KAUFFMAN points to the Association of Monterey Bay Area Governments' (AMBAG) current traffic model, which received approval from each peninsula city council, as a prototype of inter-area cooperation.

When completed later this year, traffic data will be available via computer software to jurisdictions to use in their planning process.

Another aspect of inter-governmental cooperation must be seen in the area of affordable housing, she said.

"There definitely is something wrong here," she said, referring to the large number of area residents unable to afford a home. "The only way that affordable housing will be provided is for government to be supportive."

Strasser Kauffman said she is well aware of the economics concerning affordable housing for local builders.

"I don't blame the private sector for not facing it on its own," she said, referring to benefits related to housing selling at market value.

Strasser Kauffman points to the beginning of a new decade as the appropriate time to engage in solving seemingly insurmountable problems.

"Solutions have to be shared just like the problems," she said. "It's provincial on the part of government not to reorganize."

Strasser Kauffman said she remains optimistic that the peninsula will pull together in maintaining its quality of life.

"I'm encouraged by success stories locally to go out and tackle what's before us now," she said. "The next 10 years will be critical for this area."

As usual, Strasser Kauffman said she will rely on her constituents to pave the way.

"Our public is very intelligent," she said. "They have shown a real willingness to jump in."

Backyard burning season has begun

THE MONTEREY Bay Unified Air Pollution Control District (MBUAPCD) is reminding everyone that the backyard burning season has begun in areas where it is not otherwise prohibited.

The season for burning yard trimmings originating on the premises of a single- or two-family dwelling is Jan. 1, 1991 to May 31, 1991.

In order to burn (on permissive burn days only), permissions must first be obtained from your local fire department. Burn-day information is available by the evening before by calling 1-(800) 225-BURN.

Please note that, in the Monterey Peninsula/Carmel Valley Smoke Sensitive Area, (MP/CV SSA) such burning requires a log being kept by each fire agency, of 25 or fewer authorized permittees per burn day being allowed to burn in each fire district. District Rule 407.7 requires that all backyard burning be done under permit, with daily permission granted by the local fire agency.

Fire Districts in MP/CV SSA which do allow burning must be contacted for a permit. They are: Carmel Highlands Fire Protection District; Carmel Valley Fire Protection District; Mid-Carmel Valley Fire Protection District; Monterey California State Forestry & Fire Protection Department No. 39; Monterey California State Forestry & Fire Protection Department No. 43; California Department of Forestry (Tulare County).

No burning is permitted by the Carmel Fire Department, Pacific Grove Fire Department, Pebble Beach Community Service District or Monterey Fire Department.

Any questions may be directed to the Monterey Bay Unified Air Pollution Control District (MBUAPCD) at 443-1135 (Salinas).

New changes with State income taxes

IT'S THAT time of year again when millions of Californians will sharpen their pencils and recharge the calculator batteries in preparation for filing their income taxes.

The good news for California's nearly 14 million state income tax filers is that they will notice little change in their tax forms, according to the Franchise Tax Board (FTB).

FTB points out that over half of all taxpayers are still eligible to file the state's shorter and simpler form, 540A. This year the 540A will also be available for taxpayers who receive taxable pensions, IRA distributions, annuities, or made estimated tax payments.

Some of the new and more significant changes include:

— A special fund for California seniors. A contribution equal to the $58 senior exemption credit claimed on the tax return can be made to this special fund. The money will be used to support programs providing direct services to senior citizens and to support advocacy efforts on behalf of seniors.

— A lower amount of renter's credit for married couples and head of household filers. The new amount is $120. Single filers will be entitled to $60.

— Taxpayers writing bad checks will be assessed a fee for the first time. The penalty fee is two percent of the bad check amount on any amount over $750. If the bad check is under $750, the fee is $15 or the amount of the check, whichever is less.

— Non-resident sellers of California real property will now have state income taxes withheld at 3-1/3 percent of the gross sales price.

In addition to these changes, FTB is piloting a new concept in tax return preparation and processing known as the Automated Data Sheet (ADS). The 540-ADS is designed to help reduce paper, storage and processing costs, and will allow FTB to process returns using image processing technology.

Taxpayers desiring to take advantage of the computer-type form, on which FTB guarantees a refund within two weeks, should contact your local professional tax preparer.

Taxpayers needing help this year with state income tax questions are advised to call the special FAST service (Fast Answers About State Taxes).

The special toll-free service provides recorded answers to many of the most common questions asked. The service is available with push-button phones only. The phone number is 1-800-338-0505. The hours of service for FAST are 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Saturday during tax time.

CYC NOTES

By Pat and Mike

A long, strange trip

WHAT A long, strange trip it's been. That sums up 1990 at the Carmel Youth Center.

Someone once suggested that everyone should change their direction in life every 10 years — well it seemed like things were changing around the center every 10 minutes. We started the year off by tearing the place apart for the remodeling of the snack bar and television room. Everything had to be moved into the gym for three months while the construction took place. The kids and the staff somehow made it through all the wonderful fun of the noise, dust, broken water pipes, fire alarms being set off, and the basketballs flying by the television screen, not to mention what the effect of smelling all those paint fumes did to our brains. Let's not forget the dust and the noise, did we mention the paint fumes?

During the remodeling our recreation director, Beth Kastrup, left us, and at last report was on her way to the island of Vanua Levu in Fiji. At the same time our wonderful secretary Linda Shepard left us for bigger and better things, as did our assistant youth center director Stacey King. I wonder if it was something we said?

But we all survived the turmoil and can now enjoy our new snack bar and television room. Let's not forget that we got a great new secretary Allison Gates. Acting Recreation Director Jerry Pullen has done a great job filling in and keeping things running. At least the last time we checked they were both still around, so we didn't drive them off yet.

As for our new assistant director, we hired some clown for the job. His name is Pete Dragula and in a previous life he was a performing clown for the Ringling Brothers circus. He keeps things pretty entertaining around the center, although his juggling with fire routine has the fire department a little concerned.

Some famous American once said "A man's got to know his limitations." It's obvious professional golfer Hale Irwin stretched his limitations this past year when in June he won the U.S. Open golf tournament. Why are we mentioning him, you might ask? Well it seems he started off his year by working out in our weight room while he was in town for the AT&T golf tournament. So it's obvious to us that his success was due to his being in our weight room. We expect to see quite a few more golfers in there this year.

Other big news from our weight room is of course the arrival of all new equipment courtesy of former Mayor Eastwood and the Diversified Fitness Co. We ended the year with our grand re-opening of the weight room. The ribbon cutting was attended by the head of the President's Council On Physical Fitness, Mr. Arnold Schwarzenegger, who we understand is also making movies now.

So just about everything is new at the center, now the only old things left are some of our video games, the gym, Coach Covington, and Pat and Mike. Of course some of us aren't as old as the others.

The youth center returns to its regular after-school hours of 3 to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday. Saturdays and Sundays we open at noon. Our phone number is 624-3285.

Seniors program needs participants

IN SEPTEMBER 1987 the Carmel-by-the-Sea Police Department began a program to benefit senior citizens of the community in two ways.

First, senior citizens who live alone and are often "shut-in" their residences with little or no contact with friends or relatives, can be provided with the security of knowing that someone does truly care about their welfare. Also, those concerned with their physical well-being will have someone to check on them daily.

Second, seniors interested in participating in some type of community program will be able to work with those in their own peer group by volunteering to place these daily telephone calls to the recipients of the program.

Currently, the department has a full staff of volunteers, however, anyone wishing to be placed on an alternate list to fill in when another caller is unable to make it or is away on vacation, is encouraged to call for information.

Anyone living alone, whether concerned about their health or not, and all those seniors wishing to make new friends or just have the opportunity to talk with someone new each day is encouraged to participate in this program.

Telephone calls are made daily by a volunteer beginning at 9:30 a.m. No participant is ever restricted to their home; they need only contact the police department in advance if they plan to be away during the time the calls are placed to avoid any confusion. If someone fails to answer their telephone, a patrol unit is sent by to conduct a welfare check at the residence.

In addition to these daily telephone "visitations," social events are also planned periodically as well as home visitations upon request.

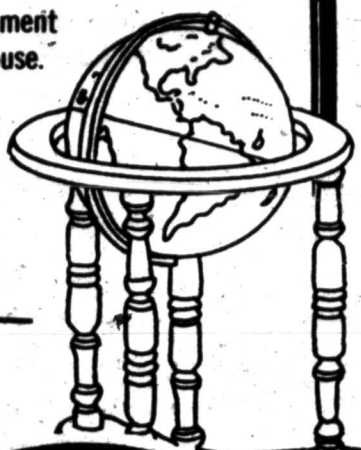

Anyone interested in becoming a part of this program should contact Desk Officer Cathy Dampier at Carmel Police Department, 624-6403.

As most professional historians know, federal government documents are often restricted from publication as a means of preserving the integrity and security of government records, so that unscrupulous people would be prevented from forging similar documents for criminal purposes. Rick Wilkerson and Elizabeth Barrett can perhaps be forgiven for their ignorance of government policy in such matters since they're both untrained amateurs in the study of history, though their unethical slanders and distortions are inexcusable. Rather than slander me as a means of forcing the publication of this government record, Mr. Wilkerson and Ms. Barrett should contact the Postal Service to request a copy of this document for themselves, if that's their real objective. Whether the Postal Service would entrust such a document to their keeping, I can only guess.

Since this document was never entrusted to my keeping, I don't know whether there were any stipulations attached to its publication, but I believe that the Sun's publication of only half of the ledger page was in the best interests of the government's security for its records. I certainly would not cooperate in any scheme to compromise the security of the U.S. Postal Service's records, regardless of their current policy governing such matters. This particular photocopy was probably made available to the history society only for the special occasion of Carmel Valley's centennial celebration in 1989; it's unusual for the Postal Service to send individuals photocopies of their original documents. And I certainly wouldn't gratify the gutter-sniping demands of these two that they should be supplied with information or proofs of any kind.

Community forum on fire protection reorganization Jan. 3

THE LEAGUE of Women Voters of the Monterey Peninsula is moderating a forum to provide public information regarding the proposed reorganization of county fire service areas 39 and 43.

The gathering is scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 3, in the cafeteria at Carmel Middle School, located on Carmel Valley Road near the mouth of the valley.

Representatives from the California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection, Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO), Mid Carmel Valley Fire Protection District and Monterey County Emergency Medical Services Agency will be on hand to answer questions.

The Mid Carmel Valley Fire Protection District has submitted a resolution to LAFCO proposing dissolution of CSA Nos. 39 and 43 and annexation of the service areas into the Mid Valley district.

Under the proposal a local board of directors would oversee the fire district.

LAFCO is scheduled to hear the matter at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 8, in the courthouse in Salinas.

Approved by the Monterey County Board of Supervisors Dec. 18, the reorganization has been the subject of bitter exchanges supporters and detractors of the idea.

In part, the public forum has been scheduled to dispell any misunderstandings concerning the plan.

Cold hands — warm hearts

WHEW! THE holidays are over. It was not your traditional Christmas season. The big freeze was an unexpected guest. A visiting relative remarked, "I didn't know you had a creek running next to your house." We don't.

This year's presents included the gift of a hot shower at a friend's house when our water pipes burst and after repairs, a Christmas eve sink full of warm and sudsy water to wash the three-day-old holiday baking dishes coldly congealed with chocolate and lumps of shortening.

Sub-zero temps cracked more than water pipes. It also kinked muscles and brought a passel of new clients to local massage therapists and chiropractors. A wrenched back resulted in the first-ever trip to the chiropractor for a member of my family.

"When was your last visit to the chiropractor?" the doctor routinely asked.

"I've never been before."

A virgin back! The doctor coaxed his patient onto a table that resembled the tilt-a-whirl ride at the carnival and went to work. The victim was heated, cooled, salved, massaged, hugged, subjected to ultra sound and something called an endorphin machine. The doctor's strong hands delivered a final crack that brought a muffled cry of "uncle" from the clenched lips of the wounded and ended the session.

We're now into homeopathic remedies, holistic healing, herbs and massage therapy.

PATRICK FRANKLIN

Patrick Franklin was a writer's writer. He was also a jokester who enjoyed the good company of his compatriots and the down-to-earth private moments that writers only share with one another.

The scene was one of our regular writer's dinners and Patrick, seated in the place of honor at our long table, was gleefully unraveling a convoluted, theatrical joke that required different dialects and characters, including a Japanese samurai and an Irish bishop. Meanwhile, Bill Minor, seated at the opposite end of the table, was squirming. Half-way through the take Minor declared he was affronted, not at the ethnicity of the story, but at Patrick's cheekiness in re-telling as joke that Bill felt was his own.

"Patrick's got the Irish bishop down pat, but he's missed the breathlessness of the Japanese zen master."

Patrick accepted Bill's linguistic challenge and it was a dueling theater of the accents as Franklin and Minor traded inflections up and down the table while the rest of us — Charles Davis, Betty Minor, Mac McDonald, Ellen Pendelton, George Fuller and Ray March laughed till we cried.

The loss of a loved one should be observed in stages. On the eve of a traditional writer's gathering — a dinner for fellow writers and friends — several of Patrick Franklin's colleagues shared their reminiscences of his work and joie de vivre.

Charles Davis — Herald columnist:

"Most people knew Pat Franklin as a music critic and radio personality. But aside from those familiar roles he was a wonderfully funny person with an encyclopedic depth of interests and expertise. Pat was a raconteur possessed of formidable wit who, had he been born 30 years sooner, would have fit in inevitably and perfectly at the Algonquin Round Table. There were many, many times when I would greet Pat with something like, 'Hey, I'm doing a story on thus-and-so,' only to have him toss back a pun or funny remark that I couldn't resist working into my story. In fact, it worked out that quite a few of my best lines were ghost written by Patrick Franklin. I'm hoping that wherever he is now, he might somehow find a moment to guide my fingers to the keys and type out some good, clever copy."

Jeff Whitmore — Monterey based writer and editor who worked with Patrick on Monterey Life and the Monterey Film Festival:

"Patrick was an editor's delight. An old saw in the business has the writer saying: 'Do you want it fast, or do you want it good?' That wasn't Patrick's style. He met his deadlines and he delivered superior work that was always intelligent and readable."

"He knew that easy writing makes hard reading. In his serious criticism — and in the light-hearted spoofs and parodies he was so fond of — he wrote with intensity. It paid off for the reader — and for the editor. He'll be greatly missed by both."

George Fuller — former Monterey Life editor and poet; now an independent publisher and columnist in Hawaii.

"Pat Franklin was one of those people who you were always happy to see. A conversation with Pat was generally filled with humor and always with fresh information. He knew things you didn't know. A man of conviction and light, Pat's presence will be missed from this planet."

Ray A. March — Carmel Valley's nationally published travel writer:

"Patrick was a writer who could make his readers reach for more. No matter what his subject, he always wrote a level above. He was a teacher, but never didactic, an intellect but never a bore. He wrote with mirth, glee, insight and sometimes a sharp knife. He was contently writing, and I for one, wish he had written even more."

William Minor — poet, jazz writer and sometime musician:

"When I first attempted a jazz review for the Herald, I was amazed by Patrick's ability to turn out clever and cogent critical pieces on his way back from concerts — a skill I never mustered. I asked him about this and he said classical music reviews had been written for centuries and established set responses and formats, whereas jazz writing has 'so few predecessors.' I think he was being too modest. Patrick as a critic — with his adroit ear, wit, honesty,

"LET IT SNOW, let it snow." Sal Lucido brought a little extra bit of Christmas to the annual Fox & Carskadon holiday party when he arrived with a load of snow fresh from the warmth and insight — remains for me a model of verbal response to music."

Sue Bernhardt — retired Sunday editor at the Herald:

"Patrick enriched all our lives as a person in addition to being thoroughly professional. He could write on any subject and would give you back exactly as many inches as you asked for, usually better than you ever anticipated. I would ask him how he did it and he would say, 'I sprinkled it with a little fairy dust.' So we developed a standing joke between us. When I had an assignment for him I would say, 'Patrick, give me 22 inches of fairy dust.' He would come through every time."

A FIRST

The National Writer's Union will hold the first of a monthly series of readings at Portofino Coffee House in Pacific Grove on Jan. 9 at 8 p.m. The first session's readers will be Cynthia Fowler, William Minor, Don Marsh and Ray A. March. Admission is $3.

PEEPS

She was petite, probably a size 6, and wore a tailored black suit, in the Chanel style. A black velvet ribbon tied back her hair and on her feet were men's size 10 beat-out blue jogging shoes. She carried a wooden-handled snow shovel as she walked out of her office in Carmel Rancho and proceeded to shovel freshly fallen snow out of a trailer parked at the curb and deposit it in a pile at the entrance to her office.

Real estate agent/broker Sal Lucido had just returned from Chew's Ridge with a trailer-load of snow for the office party and who could resist? Pam Spagna kicked off her black pumps, put on Sal's beat-around tennies and rallied the crew at Fox & Carskadon as they celebrated Christmas in high style by building a snowman, having a snowball fight and donating toys to needy children in the area as part of their annual Christmas party.

Karen Hunter's sister Kristen has relocated back to the peninsula and is again living with big sis. Kristen recently had surgery on her feet to correct some minor problems, leaving her unable to get in her daily jogging and walking workouts. So she brought an exercise bicycle back with her to the Hunter condo. It's a monster and would only fit in Karen's bedroom. But workouts are important to the sisters Hunter and Karen agreed to share her room with the machine until she tripped on it one day and broke two toes!

Let's hope Santa brought both of them nice, soft fuzzy slippers to convalesce in.

SEE AND BE SEEN

The Village is usually not a good choice for an affair. Too many people around who could recognize you. But the second annual "Village Affair" on Jan. 21 at Los Laureles Lodge is the exception.

Plan to be there. It was a great party last year and Peter Coakley, chairman of the organizing committee promises an even bigger and better event this time.

Held to raise money for pedestrian pathways in Carmel Valley Village, the "Affair" features a food and wine tasting, silent and live auctions that include vacation getaways. Tickets are affordably priced at $25.

DINING THROUGH THE DECADES

"G" day is approaching. Jan. 26 — the renowned Gourmet Gala. Sponsored in large part by the Nunes Company, the theme of this year's event is "Dining Through The Decades." So far the Gourmet Gala committee has received commitments from celebrity chefs Elinor Donahue, Jane Wyatt, Ruth Buzzi and JoAnne Worley, who will present their favorite recipes. Allison Eastwood and her mom Maggie will be whipping up a tempting dish to compete with speed ace Jon Beekhuis, Alaska politico Mike Gravel and industrialist Finis Connor.

Judges will include peninsula foodies Bert Cutino and Don Ferch, cookbook author Lee Bailey, James Berrien, vp of AMEX publishing and super chefs Joachim Splichal and Rene Verdon.

Late breaking news will reveal the full list of celebrity judges and chefs so stay tuned.

DORIS DAY'S BEST FRIENDS

By Doris Day

Pet Adoption

THIS WEEK I've decided to talk about pet adoption. That's primarily what the Doris Day Pet Foundation is all about — finding the perfect owner for a homeless dog or cat.

Unfortunately, many people begin their search for a pet without taking stock of their situation. Before you decide to bring a pet into your home, you must first decide why you want a pet. Are you looking for a lifelong responsibility, a friend and companion — or do you want an alarm system? (If the latter is true, call a security company.)

Then, will it be a dog or a cat? By their nature, cats are a bit easier to handle. They absolutely must be kept indoors to keep them safe from other animals, humans, and disease. They should have toys and scratch posts to keep them occupied and out of mischief. And if someone won't be home during the day we always recommend taking two cats to keep each other company.

If a dog is what you're looking for, consider your circumstances. Again, will someone be home during the day? If not, your dog will be lonely and that's how mischievous behavior starts. Digging, chewing and barking are all signs of boredom and loneliness, so think about taking two if your pet will be alone for hours on end. Two dogs will become great friends and companions. They'll get exercise by romping together and that in turn will keep them fit, vital and healthy.

"CHELSEA," a one-year, four-month-old female, must be the only pet in the household. She makes a great friend for youngsters and older people in search of companionship.

The very first thing we look for when we're placing a dog is a safe yard. Fencing must be 6 feet or higher. Yes, 6 feet, even if we're placing a small dog. It's just as important to keep other dogs out as it is to keep yours in!

All gates must be padlocked. So many pets stray from their homes because a gate was left open by a child, gardener or utility person.

If you have a dog, you should have a doggy door. They give your pet a certain amount of freedom and allow him or her to make some very important decisions on the spur of the moment! Kitchens and utility rooms are ideal places for a doggy door. If that's not possible, install one in your garage so that your pet will always have shelter from extreme weather conditions.

Even if a dog has had previous obedience training, it's a great idea to attend some classes so you and your new pet can learn to work together. It's a wonderful way to nurture that special bond and you'll be delighted to see how willing and eager your pet is to please.

There are several obedience classes available in this area. The Del Monte Kennel Club in Pacific Grove has a terrific program, and through Wendy Johnson they have arranged a scholarship for the DDPF. One of our volunteers may train one dog at a time, free of charge.

It took only eight Monday evening classes for Bobo, one of our orphans, to be transformed. Bobo is a one-year-old labrador mix who was truly incorrigible when he came to us. He was full of energy and rarin' to go, so we couldn't even walk him on a leash. After just eight lessons he now responds to the "sit" and "stay" commands and he doesn't jump up on people anymore. He's living proof that this program works and Bobo is now a placeable dog.

We desperately need volunteers to walk our kenneled dogs on a regular basis and to take our orphans through obedience training. It would be a real plus if a walker could be a trainer! You'd have a wonderful opportunity to make a real difference in a dog's life.

STOP RIGHT there. How could you pass up a mug like this? "Hops" could be your answer to that missing link at your home.

If you're interested in devoting some special time to help one of our orphans become a socially acceptable, placeable pet, please call us at 625-4017. You'll be glad you did! (Written in collaboration with Judy Ruby, director, Doris Day Pet Foundation, Los Angeles.)

SPCA needs towels, linens

A plea to the general public is being made by the SPCA of Monterey County: for clean towels, sheets, blankets and pillowcases for use in the animal shelter and wildlife center.
Blankets are used as comforters for the many puppies who are brought to the shelter because no one wants them. Prior to their being adopted, the shelter staff tries to make them as comfortable as possible and using blankets helps.
The greatest demand is for clean towels both in the shelter and in the wildlife center.
Donated items can be delivered to the SPCA animal shelter, 1002 Monterey-Salinas Highway 68 (across from Laguna Seca Recreation Area) any day of the week between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. If the donor has a significant quantity and cannot deliver them to the shelter, arrangements can be made to pick them up.
For more information, call 373-2631 or 422-4721.

Increase in AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro Am Purse for '91

THE PURSE for the 1991 AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am has been raised to $1,100,000, an increase of $100,000 over the previous purse.

First place prize money will be $198,000. The announcement was made by William F. Borland, chairman of the AT&T Pebble Beach Golf Charities, the nonprofit foundation which stages the annual charity event in Pebble Beach.

Borland said the increase in professional prize money will place the AT&T Pebble Beach purse in the top 10 percent of all tournaments on the PGA Tour.

The 1991 AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am will be played Jan. 28th through Feb. 3rd at Pebble Beach, Poppy Hills and Spyglass Hill golf courses.

Last year's tournament, which raised $1 million for charity, was won by Mark O'Meara. O'Meara, who has enjoyed a stellar career on the PGA Tour, has won the tournament a total of three times, the last two back-to-back.

Tickets are currently on sale and may be purchased through the tournament office (1-800-541-9091) or BASS/TM ticket offices.

FIRST PERSON

By Illia Thompson

Firsts

AN EARLY morning phone call. Will I please accompany my granddaughter to her first day of kindergarten? Of course, I'll pick her up and deliver her before I got to work.

Today, as I hang out laundry, I feel vulnerable. I see more clearly, hear country sounds distinctly, breathe the Carmel Valley air and experience gratitude for the moment. Could last night's moonlight, its call to be noticed, have left its mark? Bright early morning sunlight, almost harsh by contrast, attempts to shake my mood. Bird song welcomes the day, prods my nostalgia. So many firsts: my first day in school, first grade, first school. I quiet, foreign, use all that I can, concentrate completely to quickly become acceptable, to learn the language to unlock mysteries.

My children's firsts, young ones, preschool, community, family for us whose family lived thousands of miles away. School. I remember so few specifics from my days. How much will this child, my progeny, keep for herself?

First grandchild. We arrive at school. She wears an outfit, matching pants and top, aquas and pinks, which I chose for her. Long blond hair, blue eyes, a sparkle to her walk, she holds her lunch box. She leads the way. We enter the room. Her teacher, seated, eye level with this five-year-old places a prepared name tag around her neck, tells her where to put her lunch box, and shows her the way to a circle of children. I speak farewell to the blond, pink and aqua back of a child looking forward.

As I walk back to the car, the words, "I love you all the way to the moon and the stars and back again," our simple attempt to describe the love we share, come to me.

Aware of overwhelming beauty, landscape, morning sounds, I sense "possibilities." Maybe that's what firsts are all about, anyway. Possibilities.

Birth mothers group meets every month

A BIRTH mothers support group meets once a month at the Childrens Services Center in Monterey.

Birth mothers are women who have given their children up for adoption; the group allows these women to share their feelings with others, according to Teri Livingston, who has been a member of the 2-year-old group.

"There are a lot of women out there...and there's a lot of pain involved," she said. "This gives them a chance to talk about it. We're not a search group, but we have information on it."

The support group meets at 7 p.m. on the last Wednesday of each month at the center at 648 Pine Ave. in Pacific Grove. More information can be obtained by calling either Carol Bishop or Gayle Ward at Childrens Services Center of Monterey County, 649-3033.

Knowledge of CPR could save lives

More than 70 percent of all CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) rescues occur in the home on an individual known by the rescuer.

Statistics show that more than 650,000 people in the United States died from heart attacks in 1986 and that heart disease is the leading cause of death in Monterey County.

On the other hand CPR saves more than 250 lives a day; the more people that know CPR, the more lives that can be saved.

With that in mind the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross offers CPR classes monthly all year.

Classes are held at the Carmel Red Cross house at Eighth and Dolores. Classes include demonstrations and teaching of the Heimlich maneuver. Cost is $20 for the eight-hour class. A certificate will be presented upon completion.

For more information call the Red Cross at 624-6921.

Sierra 49er Express

(The second of a two-part series)

A RECAP: We've just debarked at the downtown Reno depot after a day-long train cruise from San Jose. Passengers have picked up their baggage and hailed waiting cabs. Bally's here we come.

RENO — This is a town that prides itself in being "The Biggest Little City in the World." It may be the winter dregs, but tonight Reno looks tired, gray and milked out by the local good ol' boys gang.

If Reno has some inflated thoughts of itself, Bally's has no illusions. It is what it is. Pure glamor, glitz and bizarre. When Bally's peaks, as it does on New Year's Eve, the population inside this mammoth casino, rivals Reno and Sparks. Bally's may be a gambler's Mecca, but it's Valhalla for census takers.

This place is so immense it can only be describ-

THE NATIONAL Automobile Museum in Reno, Nev. is a great way to spend time instead of money. It's entertainment for the family at a modest entrance fee. So plan on a leisurely afternoon.

ed in superlatives. The front desk has more check-in windows than Golden Gate Fields has betting windows. The Super Bowl could be played in the casino without disrupting the crap games on the side. Guests can eat in a different restaurant for a week without repeating themselves.

Bally's makes its point when it calls itself "a city within a city." For two nights we never saw another passenger from the Sierra 49er Express.

But gambling isn't everything and the Sierra 49er Express has anticipated that a Reno interlude should be more than an all-night stand at the tables. Included in each Luxury Dome passenger's packet is a fat discount coupon-book covering everything from historic tours to blackjack lessons.

One of the best bets off the casino floor is the National Automobile Museum, an incredible tribute to the collection of the late William Harrah. The exterior architecture of the museum is intimidating and uninviting, but ignore that because inside awaits an absorbing and entertaining car show.

Don't expect the sophistication of the Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance. The National Automobile Museum is mainstream, Main Street. This exhibit brings the cars to the people.

No one should miss the imaginative multimedia show that traces the history of the automobile, the 1949 Merc that James Dean drove in Rebel Without A Cause, or American street scenes like the display in front of the Palace Theater where the marquee announces that Gone With The Wind is playing on the inside while a 1938 Packard waits curbside.

Set aside a couple of hours or more for a complete tour of the National Automobile Museum. It will be time and money well spent.

But all good things must end if there's a train waiting at the station. One last roll of the dice, a final pull on the bandit's arm, a bold draw to an inside straight, the lingering rattle of the roulette wheel and then the cab ride downtown.

There's a cold, quiet wait for the train to make the curve in the track from Sparks where it's been parked. The Napa honkers crowd to the front just as a long-shot better predicted. The gambling scholar with the paperback guide is sitting with some other passengers, his buddy has plopped into a bar chair two cars down.

"Do we get to stop at Boomtown," jokes a man, "I've got a little money left."

Joe McGrath, the congenial train director, walks through casually asking if anyone won, but no one responds. Amateur losers mope and winning pros never brag.

The Napa couples are happy campers, now snug in their or someone else's assigned seating. A cynical old guy nearby suggests to his partner that the train crew stage Murder on the Orient Express because he knew of a couple potential victims.

One woman brags about having what she called a "minor" heart attack at a downtown casino and going to the emergency ward for the night. She waves her hospital bracelet in the air as proof.

"This is the stuff that makes America's home videos," McGrath says.

Drinks and hors d'oeuvres come quickly and everybody settles down. Peter Wilson, the Grass Valley folk singer, enters the dome car singing "My money lies over the mountain" and the passengers, all in good nature, join in with "oh, bring back, oh, bring back my money to me."

"Now, this reminds me of the Fun Train," a smiling fellow said to no one.

That's the thing about trains. They remind train riders of other trains. Remember the one from Fairbanks to Anchorage? Longest traveling poker game in the world. Fourteen hours. Or the old Zephyr. Wasn't that the City of San Francisco? Now that was class. And then there was the time on the NYC to Washington, D.C. run. Actually beat the shuttle from Kennedy. The Broadway Express and the Empire Builder. How about those third-class cars in Europe when we were younger? Bring your own eats. Or that troop train full of French soldiers smoking Turkish tobacco cigarettes. Of course, who can forget the Del Monte Express? Where is it when you need it? How about the ride from L.A. to New Orleans. Sat up in the dark drinking cognac.

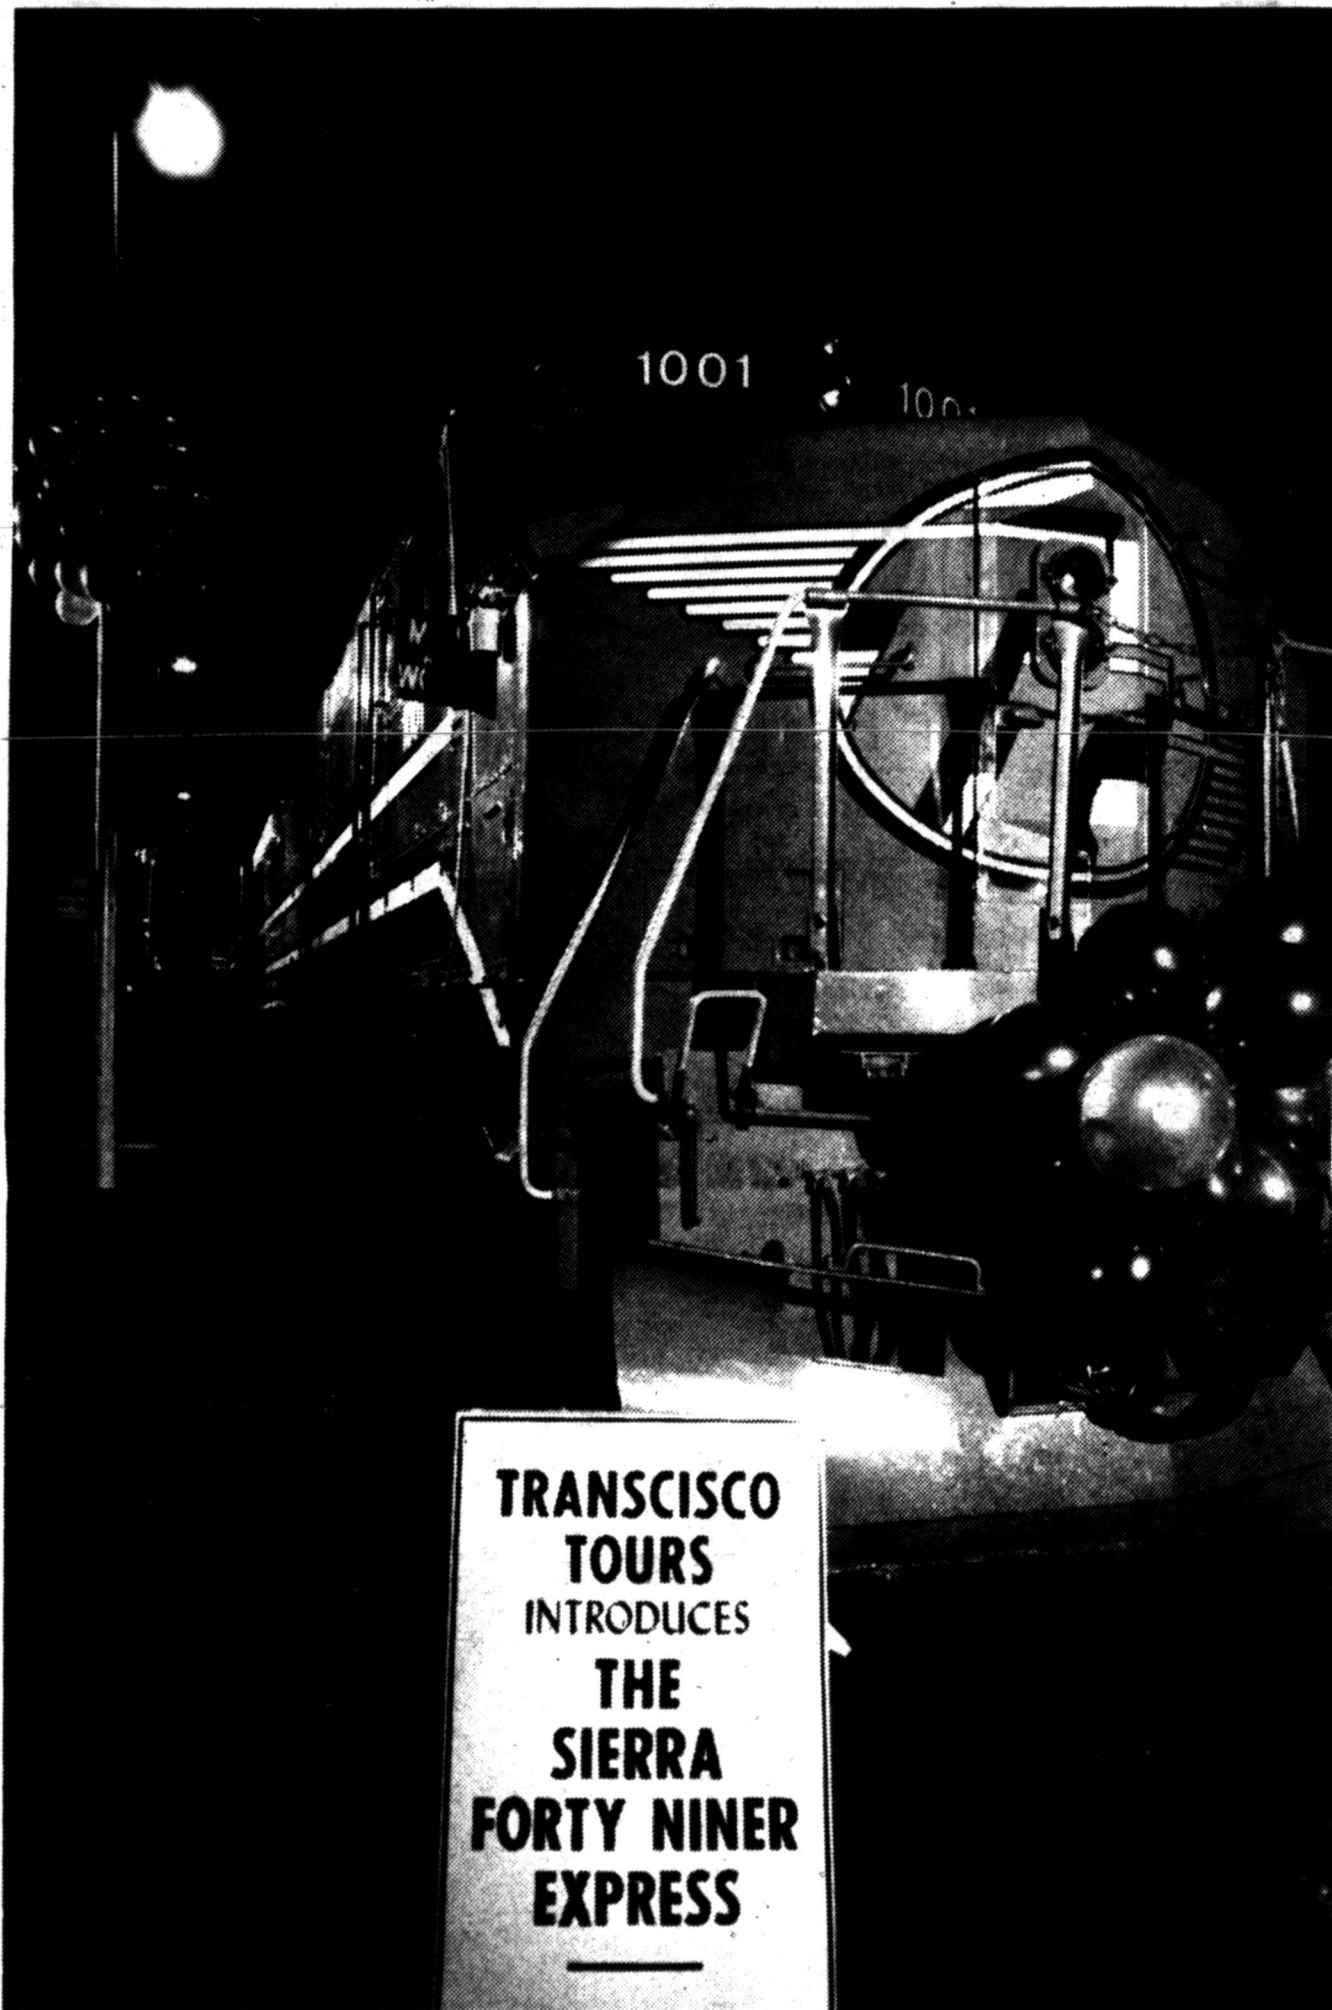

Those were the days and these are too. Trains take us back to a civilized time. Sitting at a well-appointed dining table, glass of wine, the slow rhythm of the car moving from side to side. Quiet conversation. Snow-covered mountains outside the window.

There's a prelude of Brazilian black bean soup for dinner, followed by an exotic mushroom salad and roasted breast of duck as dusk falls and the lights of the deco lamps cast shadows on the mahogany walls.

After dinner the passengers ease into a relaxed mood. Some read, others snooze or look for Christmas lights in the darkness. The Sierra 49er Express is hardly an express, but it is an adventure. Don't take the train to get anywhere; take it to get away.

At San Jose we're an hour late, but so what? It's still raining and we need that.

"Please wait for the train to completely stop before you disembark," Tim Raw, our car captain, calls out.

THE SIERRA 49er Express waits at the station ready to carry its passengers off to fun, fantasy and riches in Reno, Nev. There are two runs a week departing from San Jose.

TAKE MY WORD FOR IT

By D. Patrick Gallagher

Trying

YOU CAN attract more bees with honey than with vinegar," goes an old saying. Not so, says Mr. Scott DeGarmo, manager for the magazine Success, as reported in a recent story in the Wall Street Journal.

Mr. DeGarmo has tried to encourage his editors to watch closely for spelling and grammatical errors and to correct them before stories and articles get into print. He has tried "all the nice, positive things," such as quietly and gently pointing out missed errors to his senior editors and commending perfect copy, but to no avail. Finally, and desperately, he has resorted to stiff monetary penalties.

Errors now come at a high price: $25 for garbling a word, such as "sentrice," $25 for the extraneous comma, $50 to $100 for misspelling a word and $500 for misspelling a name, $25 is charged for misused hyphens, particularly in words ending in "ly," such as "hastily-conceived." The fines are subtracted from next year's pay raises and one editor is already facing a $650 charge.

"This seems lenient to me," says Mr. DeGarmo, "perhaps because on my first newspaper job anyone who made such an error was automatically fired." There is the "threat" of non-monetary penalties, too. "I will come tearing at you like a raging bull, a shrieking harpy, a mad dog from hell," another memo warns.

Possibly the worst response from editors reported by Mr. DeGarmo was they just couldn't spell. Why not? Because spelling had not been emphasized in their English and journalism courses, much less in any other course. Since the implementation of the Draconian measures, mistakes have dwindled significantly. Mr. DeGarmo points out "If they're motivated, they'll learn." All teachers, please take note.

"We probably didn't check things as carefully as we should have," says the senior editor who incurred some $500 in fines, and he does not consider the penalties unreasonable. "It's probably one of the least outrageous things that happens around here." Not everyone shares his point of view and some of the criticism for Mr. DeGarmo's program comes from surprising, and yet predictable, sources.

"I wouldn't work for Success on any basis," says Mr. Stephen D. Isaacs, academic dean at Columbia University's journalism school. His logic is curious. "Here's a person penalizing people for human frailties (emphasis added). It's crazy." Mr. Isaacs and Mr. DeGarmo are trying, but in different ways. Mr. Isaacs appears to be a part of the problem. De gustibus non est disputandum. Too many students are encouraged to pay attention to "content," whatever that is, while being allowed to sacrifice grammatical structure and spelling. Each is important and neither need be sacrificed.

Teaching has attracted some excellent candidates and some who would have been better advised to seek employment elsewhere. Sen. Hubert Humphrey during a political speech to a group of teachers, talked about his own background in teaching. Feeling the need to explain his digression, he told them "I mention my teaching background because, considering the precarious future of public office, I thought you might like to look me over."

Mr. Isaacs' seeming disregard for the importance of proper English in journalism brings to mind a story about Jim Kieran, an Irishman and sports columnist with a wizard's knowledge of Latin. Kieran had been invited to speak to a prep school Latin class as a courtesy to the school's football coach and to the chagrin of the headmaster. In introducing Kieran, the headmaster threw out a Latin phrase, supposedly for the boys' amusement and at Kieran's expense, which said in effect, "Let's make the best of this ordeal."

Kieran rose, bowed stiffly to the headmaster, and said, "Gentlemen, the only thing that outraged me more than the boorishness of the man who introduced me was his inexcusable use of the present participle instead of the past pluperfect in the quotation." Kieran then delivered his entire speech in Latin.

My compliments to Mr. DeGarmo.

THIS & THAT

By Florence Mason

Happy New Year!

A LITTLE of THIS and a little of THAT as I clean off my desk (kitchen table) for a fresh start in the new year.

I DO try to patronize Carmel businesses whenever possible. But some local businesses make it hard. For example, bakeries.

I sallied forth innocently one morning to order a decorated cake for a special occasion. Made my way down Ocean Avenue, into and out of the three bakeries on that street. If I had just wanted a nice piece of coffee cake, some cookies or pastry — no problem. All three seemed geared up to that, and two invited me to eat the coffee cake or whatever right there, with coffee. Wonderful! But decorated cakes? No way!

One bakery did offer to order one for me through a Pacific Grove source, but that felt like adding insult to injury. I decided to seek out my own source and eventually acquired a fine cake from Pucci's in Monterey. Later, I learned that I could have acquired same closer to home — from Safeway at the Crossroads. Now I know. But so much for resident-oriented businesses in the city of Carmel, Bakery division.

I had better luck in my quest for "old-fashioned" Christmas tree ornaments for one relative. Found just what I wanted right here at home: at Crossbow Antiques on Lincoln Street. It may be a little late for you to know this now, but there is always next Christmas (we hope). Friendly owner Gordon Geertz said they have more in their attic at home.

QUOTED ONE member of a city commission: "Our meetings are mined with bombs of trivia." Remarkable how much gets accomplished in spite of the minefields!

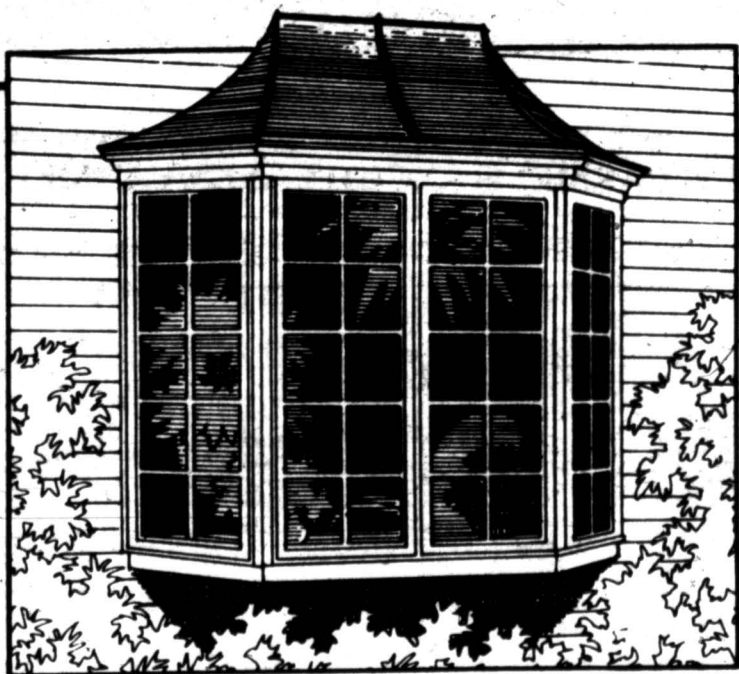

A good example of accomplishment by another group: the latest gift to Sunset Center from the indefatigable Friends of Sunset Foundation — new lights on the stairs and landing leading from the foyer to the theater balcony. They were ordered especially for the center through the efforts of Lequita Watkins, an interior decorator in private life who is purely a volunteer in all she does as a member of the Friends.

According to Jean White, president of the Friends, the decision to contribute a significant amount to the purchase of six new lights was made after discussions with groups using Sunset Center and the establishment of a "wish list." Lights were high on that list and had the advantage of being relatively easy to acquire, right now.

"The Friends exist to support the community through its cultural activities at Sunset Center, and we believe this can best be done by little steps — one at a time," Jean said.

A not-so-little step was also taken by the Friends when they put together a schedule of events that takes us through June, 1991. The schedule lists events at Sunset, the Forest Theater, Cherry Hall and other local facilities. If you or your group wants to set a date for a cultural event, this schedule is invaluable. And it is impressive, in both numbers and quality. Culture is alive and well in Carmel!

over $3 million, you can have a house in Carmel Valley that has four bedrooms and 8 full baths, among other amenities. That intrigued me: two bathrooms for each bedroom? His and hers? The house has more than 18,000 square feet, an indoor swimming pool and 12 "oak-studded" acres: just right for one of our highly-paid baseball, basketball, football or tennis stars?

That whole scenario — the astronomical salaries being paid athletes (some of whom are only mediocre performers) disturbs me. But I don't know what to suggest, except perhaps that more of these athletes donate some of their earnings to worthy charities. Such was the fine "gesture" by rising tennis star Pete Sampras after he won $2 million in a recent tournament. He donated $250,000 to cerebral palsy. Now there's a winner.

OBSERVATION (PLAGIARIZED from Capsules, the monthly newsletter of the CHOMP auxiliary): "A recent Snack Bar patron sat listening to a harp playing in the Fountain Court. After a few minutes, she turned to a volunteer and questioned the choice of harp music on the grounds that a patient waking up after surgery might really wonder where he was!"

HAVING ENJOYED a Vermont autumn and early winter some five years ago, I am somewhat hard to please about local "color." But last month I did see and appreciate the changing seasons as evidenced by trees along the Carmel River bed, and especially a few lovely trees in full autumn glory just off Carmel Valley Road at Robinson Canyon. Brought back happy memories.

DID YOU get the pet you wanted for Christmas? If not, how about an iguana? One year old, excellent condition, with good color (that's important in an iguana?). So read an ad just before Christmas. If it didn't sell right away you might even get a reduction of the $80 price.

NOT ONLY in Carmel?

"So how did the municipal election go in Carmel? Here the budgetary minded, concerned for resident type of candidates were the winners and since that time, each council meeting angrily reflects differences in thinking... This town, like all others is suffering from the over-use of water and sewer treatment, and parking... You would be surprised though, with the general up-grading of the business community and we have some very decent shops now, selling better quality merchandise. Certainly no comparison to your area, but an improvement and I try to buy everything I can locally. Fortunately the grocery store is excellent and food is what I buy most of."

Food for thought? The town is Calistoga. I'm indebted to Linda Anderson for sharing that letter from a friend.

SCOOP! A happy Brian Donaghue, settling in as Carmel's cultural director, reports that he and his lovely lady, Beth Wilbur, will be married next year — "probably the end of June." More about that, and about Beth, in a future column. "Happy New Year" will have a special meaning for those special people.

GETTING PERSONAL: 1991 will bring me new status; I will become a great grandmother! That's courtesy of a granddaughter and her husband who live in Illinois. How do I feel about that? It's awesome! Not having known any of my own grandparents, I was surprised and pleased to become a grandparent myself, some years ago. Being advanced to even more exalted status as a great grandmother is literally wonderful. But wait, there's more. My son and his wife will have their first child in June! And a grandson is to be married! The family tree is looking very healthy.

With that forward-looking item, I wish you a very happy — and peaceful — new year. Hope springs eternal.

CHAMBER/VCB RESPONDS TO SPECIAL REQUEST

In response to a very special request, movie videos are being collected through Jan. 18 by the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce and Visitors & Convention Bureau.

Incoming chamber/VCB president, Jack Holt, said the collection was inspired by a letter from Capt. John J. Johnson with the 590th Supply & Service Company of Fort Ord stationed in Saudi Arabia.

Johnson wrote: "The unit has been here for over three months and the prospect of going home in the near future is really remote ... The company, fueled by letters from home, cookies and goodies from family and friends ... has managed to cope with the loneliness of being away from home. The unit, however, could use some assistance in obtaining used videos (current and previously run movies) as the stock of these are limited."

Johnson said the soldiers have access to a television and VCR. His letter continues: "If you had the opportunity to see or read about the efforts, mission and lifestyle of the unit while here in Saudi Arabia, you would understand the importance the viewing of movies and current programming has on morale."

Holt said the chamber/VCB has informed their membership of the request. Anyone wishing to participate can drop tapes to the chamber/VCB at 380 Alvarado St., between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Monday through Friday.
For information call 649-1770.

CARMEL PUBLIC LIBRARY FOUNDATION RECEIVES GIFT TO NAME HARRISON MEMORIAL LIBRARY LOCAL HISTORY ROOM

During a luncheon held Dec. 27 at La Playa Hotel in Carmel, hosted by Carmel Public Library Foundation board treasurer, J. Randolph Elliott, the first payment of a major gift was presented to the CPLF Board by Lacy Williams Faia of Carmel, in memory of her father, Henry Meade Williams. The gift will be funded by the newly created Frank H. and Eva Buck Foundation.

The Frank H. and Eva Buck Foundation was created upon the death of Eva Buck, in June of 1990, to honor Frank H. Buck, who served in the United States House of Representatives from California's Third District for five terms — from 1932 to 1942. The gift will be invested in the foundation's endowment, and used to purchase materials and expand programs of the Local History Room, housed at Harrison Memorial's Park Branch. The Local History Room, which serves as the archive for the City of Carmel and surrounding unincorporated area, will be renamed the Henry Meade Williams Local History Room upon completion of the gift in 1991.

Henry Meade Williams was a writer, editor, publisher and bookstore owner in Carmel-by-the-Sea. His entire life was spent among books. He once worked as an editor of American Magazine, and was the author of more than 150 short stories which appeared in Collier's, Saturday Evening Post and other leading magazines. He owned the popular Wells' Book Store in the village until his retirement. His father was Jesse Lynch Williams, whose play Why Mary? received the first Pulitzer Prize for drama in 1917. At one time, Mr. Williams served as president of Friends of Harrison Memorial Library. He was a very active member of the cultural life of the community.

Mona Williams, his widow said of Henry Williams and the bookstore, "He made it a very special store — he knew his customers so well that they came to trust his taste. They would phone him and say, 'I want something to read — what would I like?' He knew, and would often deliver books to the homes of his friends and customers."

Attending the luncheon were: Lacey Williams Faia, Robert Buck, CPLF Board President James L. Billwiller; Vice President Joseph N. Chaffers; Treasurer J. Randolph Elliot; Secretary Philo K. Holland; Friends of Harrison Memorial Library President Cecil Wahle, and CPLF board members: Margaret Christensen, Lamont Wiltsee, and John Hicks. Harrison Memorial Library was represented by Board of Trustees President Merryl Cottrell, Library Director Margaret Pelikan and Local History Department Head Dr. Linda Coppens.

MIDDLE EAST CRISIS BLOOD CENTER CALL FOR DONORS

The Community Hospital Blood Center is asking peninsula residents to roll up their sleeves in greater numbers than ever before to help replace supplies lost as a result of Operation Desert Shield.

In August, the Blood Center learned it would be losing almost a quarter of its total donated blood supply when the Department of Defense ordered all military bases to stockpile blood from armed services personnel for possible use in the Middle East.

That meant the Community Hospital could no longer hold blood drives at the Defense Language Institute. Language students, employees, officers and government employees at the Presidio have, in the past, generously donated some 1,000 pints of blood annually in blood drives held there quarterly.

The Community Hospital Blood Center draws approximately 5,400 pints of blood each year from peninsula residents. Blood drawn locally supplies 95 percent of the hospital's needs; the rest is transferred from the Red Cross Blood Center in San Jose.

"That's a loss of 250 units every three months which we used as our basic hospital stock," said Dr. David Borucki, medical director of the Blood Center. "Now, we're short, and we're drawing heavily from San Jose. But because military bases nationwide are complying with this order, hospitals and blood banks everywhere are scrambling to meet their blood needs."

The shortage comes at an especially bad time: the end of summer, when blood donations are at a seasonal low.

Thus far the hospital has been able to meet all its needs, Borucki emphasized. "We have not had to cancel a single surgery, nor have we had any deaths for lack of blood," he said. "This is largely due to the cooperative efforts between local hospitals and the Red Cross."

But, he said, "Community Hospital doesn't have the supply it needs," and if the shortage continues at its current rate, it's conceivable elective (non-emergency) surgeries would be cancelled or rescheduled.

The Community Hospital Blood Center is asking residents to donate blood at the center, which is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday; and 10:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Thursdays on the main floor of Community Hospital, 23625 Holman Highway, Monterey. Walk-in donors are welcome, but appointments are preferred.

The hospital will be having special Saturday hours sometime this month. Advertisements will be placed soon announcing the times and dates.

Donating blood is a relatively painless procedure which takes between 30 and 45 minutes to complete. No known risks are associated with donating blood.

For more information or to make an appointment to donate blood call the Community Hospital Blood Center at 625-4814.

U.S. NAVY'S LARGEST NUCLEAR AIRCRAFT CARRIER PRESENTED WITH ORIGINAL EAGLE SCULPTURE AS SYMBOL OF ITS MISSION

The nation's most advanced nuclear aircraft carrier, the U.S.S. Carl Vinson was recently presented with the symbol of its mission — The Fighting Gold Eagle — an original sculpture by Robert Signorella of Carmel.

Receiving the sculpture donated to the Navy by art patron H. James Knappe was U.S. Capt. Doyle J. Borchers II, aboard his ship anchored in San Francisco Bay.

Nicknamed "The Fighting Gold Eagle," Borchers' ship has long sought an appropriate symbol for its mission on the high seas.

Explaining at the presentation how it happened that the eagle came to be the ship's mascot, Borchers said, "My wife and I were window shopping with the Knappes in Pebble Beach and came upon an art gallery that Gary and Emma Koepfel own. As I walked in, what really caught my eye was this big beautiful brass gold eagle. I thought, 'Wow! it would really be something if we could find a way to bring one of these onto the ship to be our mascot and symbol on The Gold Eagle for years to come.'"

"So I spoke with Emma, Gary's wife, and quickly discovered that maybe this gold eagle would be out of reach financially, and that it would probably take some sort of miracle for us to ever capture this beautiful bird and bring her aboard the ship. Amazingly enough, that's exactly what happened. The very next day my friend, Jim called me and said, 'Bobbie and I think you should have that, we are going to present it to you.' Well, I couldn't believe it. I was absolutely flabbergasted."

As such, the spectacular sculpture of the American Bald Eagle by Signorella could not have been a more appropriate choice by Knappe as a gift for the ship.

"When I spent three days about a year ago on this ship," commented Knappe at the presentation to the crew, "I was so impressed. You guys are so fantastic. You have a great ship and I'm proud of it, and I'm glad that Bobbie and I can support the United States Navy."

Handcrafted entirely from brass, except for the cast-bronze head and feet, the one-of-a-kind eagle is the hallmark subject of Signorella's sculpture. A Vietnam veteran, himself, Signorella has a special feeling about this presentation of his work to the United States Navy.

The U.S.S. Carl Vinson, the nation's largest, most advanced nuclear vessel, is host to over 6,000 crew members and boasts a flight deck that covers 4-1/2 acres. The ship is now based at Bremerton, Wash.

The Signorella Eagles are exclusively represented by Coast Publishing and are on permanent exhibition in both the original life-sized and half-scale limited editions at its Coast Galleries in Big Sur and Pebble Beach, and in Wailea on Maui.

Says Coast Gallery and Publishing owner, Gary Koeppel, "We are pleased that the Captain and Jim Knappe came into the gallery in Pebble Beach, that they discovered Bob Signorella's eagle and that, through a collaborative effort, we were a small part of the largesse of Mr. Knappe to help bring this symbol, The Fighting Gold Eagle to you men on the ship today."

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

Sundays are different in the dining hall of Concordia College in Bronxville, New York. The turnout is "about the liveliest group I've seen here," a freshman coed said. The lively ones are senior citizens who visit for lunch, entertainment, lectures by college faculty, and socializing with each other and with student volunteers. The students carry lunch trays as needed and circulate to pour coffee and meet the guests. Started four years ago, the Sunday sessions are a joint program of the college and town. Senior citizens make a small contribution toward lunch costs. The town provides transportation for those who need it. Generation gap? "I like to be with the young people," says one guest.

Winston presents 'Winter Concert' at Sunset Theater

SOLO PIANIST George Winston brings his "Winter Show" to the Sunset Theater in Carmel at 8 p.m. Friday, Jan. 4. Tickets are $16 for reserved seating and are available through Center State Ticketing, 649-5561.

Aiding food, shelter, clothing and job services to homeless families and families in transition. If you have any questions or would like more information, contact Charles Glick at 899-HOPE.

Join George Winston in support of Alliance on Aging Food Bank by bringing a can of food to the concert. There will be collection baskets at the entrances.

In concert George presents two different shows, the "Summer Show" and the "Winter Show," which he alternates each time he plays in a city. Each show is centered around a seasonal theme and features both recorded and unrecorded pieces. Winston performed his "Summer Show" at the Sunset Center this past June to a sold-out house.

George performs his own brand of pop instrumental music consisting of 'hot' music (R&B/Blues/Rock/Standards), as well as the melodic music that comprises most of his recorded output. The style of these pieces is best described as rural folk piano.

Presently, George is concentrating on the live performance as well as studying the playing of the late R&B solo pianist, James Booker and R&B/jazz pianist, Henry Butler. He is also recording some of the musicians who have inspired him for many years on his own Dancing Cat Records label. A subsidiary label, Hawaiian Slack Key Guitar Records, was recently started to record slack key artists playing the traditional solo fingerpicking styles unique to the Islands.

The Sunset Theater is located in Carmel on San Carlos Street at 9th Avenue.

Artists welcomed to hear about '91 open studio tour

VISUAL ARTISTS who plan to participate in the third annual Monterey County Artists' Studio Tour are strongly urged to attend a meeting on Monday, Jan. 7 at 7:30 p.m. at the Pacific Grove Art Center. At this meeting they will receive information about the event and have an opportunity to ask questions of the tour coordinators.

The 1991 Studio Tour is scheduled for the weekend May 4-5, and will include an exhibition at the Pacific Grove Art Center (April 19-May 10), of work by each participant on the tour.

Artists who were on the Studio Tour during the past two years have reported significant sales of their art works and contacts which led to commissioned work or exhibitions. Many have given credit to the Studio Tour experience for both professional and artistic development and have expressed enthusiasm for the contact this event provides with an interested public.

To participate, artists must have a studio in Monterey County which they will open to the public both Saturday and Sunday of the tour weekend from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Artists whose studios are inaccessible, or too small for visitors, may share studio space with another artist on the tour. In addition, artist participants must become members of Artists Equity Central Coast Chapter, the sponsoring organization.

Registration forms will be available at the Jan. 7 meeting and must be submitted by Jan. 15 to: Artists Equity Central Coast Chapter, P.O. Box HG, Pacific Grove, CA 93950.

Woehler's lecture, "The Imaginative Mind in Art and Science," is first in a series of monthly lectures co-sponsored by the Cherry Foundation and the Monterey Institute for Research in Astronomy (MIRA).

The Cherry Foundation-MIRA series, entitled "Creative Convergence: The Debate Continues," is drawing speakers from an array of disciplines in science, philosophy, and the arts to consider ways in which creativity may be similar in different areas of human inquiry, and to discuss ways in which it may be dissimilar as well.

Woehler was born in Germany and received academic degrees from the universities at Bonn, Aachen and Munich. He was a student of the late Professor Werner Heisenberg, one of the "fathers" of modern atomic physics. After working in industrial and university research institutions and consulting for NASA, Woehler joined the Naval Postgraduate School in 1962.

In 1973 he was selected Outstanding Educator of America. From 1974 - 1979 and again from 1987 to the present, he served as chairman of the Physics Department at the Naval Postgraduate School. His specialization areas are astrophysics, cosmology, theory of elementary particles, and nuclear weapons and their effects.

THIS BAMBOO root carving of the eight Taoist Immortals is taken from the Art Asia Scholar's Collection at the Cherry Foundation Gallery. An opening reception is set 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 6.

CARVED BAMBOO Scholar's Articles from the Art Asia Collection are displayed with the scrolls of Hou Zhong Yu at the Cherry Foundation Gallery through Jan. 26. The gallery is at Guadalupe and Fourth, Carmel.

Asian-themed artwork gathered for Carmel exhibit

A SURVEY of traditional Chinese scrolls together with a collection of scholar's articles will open with an exhibit of paintings by Jeanne D'Orge Saturday, Jan. 5 at the Cherry Foundation.

The exhibit, which can be seen through Jan. 26, includes traditional scrolls by Hou Zhong Yu's, the scholar's articles collection from Art Asia Museum and oriental-influenced paintings by Jeanne D'Orge.

A fifth generation artist, Zhong Yu graduated from the elite Chinese Aviation College before attending the Central Academic Institute in Beijing. In 1989, Zhong Yu was part of the tumultuous upheaval in Tiananmen Square. Through friends and luck, he fled China and ended up in middle-class Salinas and later Carmel. Currently, Zhong Yu is a student at San Jose State College.

The exhibit, which is being organized in collaboration with Art Asia Museum, can be seen through Jan. 26. A reception will be held Saturday, Jan. 6 from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m.

The Cherry Foundation, a nonprofit organization, is located at the corner of Fourth and Guadalupe, Carmel.

The exhibit is made possible, in part, through grants from the Monterey County Cultural Council and the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea. For more information, call 624-7491.

Parisian gentle. Moses has not spoken with his brother in 10 years, but when a business trip to Paris turns into a disaster he must seek his help.

The comedy will be shown in French with subtitles on Friday through Sunday, Jan. 4-6.

It begins at 8:15 p.m. in the Morse Auditorium at the Monterey Institute of International Studies, 440 Van Buren St., Monterey. Admission is $4 general, $3 for students and senior citizens. For information, call 626-1730.

Tomfoolery

A beaver's tail is about 12 inches long, six to seven inches wide and three-quarters of an inch thick. A beaver will slap its tail on the water to make noise and warn other beavers of danger.

The art of weaving by tying knots probably began in the 1200's by Arabians but it wasn't called macrame until about the 1400's. That's an Arabic or Turkish word meaning fringe.

World class road racing returns to Laguna Seca

ON JULY 19-21, the tradition, excitement and world class competition of IMSA (International Motor Sports Association), Road Racing will return to the famed Laguna Seca Raceway in Monterey, California.

Produced by Global Events Group of Portland, OR, this 1991 IMSA weekend will include such action-packed events as: the exotic Camel GT featuring both the big GTP cars and the smaller Camel Lights cars, the Exxon Supreme Series which showcases the very popular GTO/GTU cars and the Firestone Firehawk Series designed to display the performance of street stock automobiles.

"We are happy to welcome IMSA back to Laguna Seca," said Ken Lofink, president of the Sports Car Racing Association of the Monterey Peninsula (SCRAMP). "Adding this IMSA event to the 1991 schedule will benefit the entire community. Not only will it provide California race fans with a chance to view thrilling action, but it will increase the revenue earned by the many charities involved with Laguna Seca and further add to the economic impact that Laguna Seca brings to the community."

"It is an honor to be able to bring this premier weekend of road racing back to Monterey," said Mike Nealy, president of Global Events Group. "Laguna Seca Raceway, known for its U.S. International Grand Prix and the Champion Spark Plug 300 Car race, is without a doubt, one of the finest racing venues in the United States. We certainly appreciate IMSA, R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company and SCRAMP for providing us with this great opportunity.

Global Events Group, no newcomer to racing, is well known in the motorsports industry for their excellent marketing of the Portland Rose Festival Association's Budweiser G.I. Joe's 200 CART event and the promotion of the G.I. Joe's/Camel Gran Prix. In addition Global Events Group promotes vintage car racing, and ethnic festivals and celebrations.

"We have worked with Mike Nealy and his excellent staff for a number of years," said Mark Raffauf, President of IMSA. "We couldn't be more pleased to have his organization on board for the upcoming Laguna Seca event. His expertise and ability, coupled with the great track and beautiful setting, will insure the success of this event."

JAZZ TIDES

By John Detro

Love's bright ways

MAY THIS NEWBORN year bring you solid works and love's bright ways. The unusually cold weather certainly hasn't frozen our local jazz scene.

Blazing young trumpet man Ron Coolidge holds forth on Tuesday nights at Shanty Malone's in Valley Hills Center (right beside Quail Lodge). Here's one player whose technical skill keeps up with his energy, desire, musical imagination. Check him out — you'll come away amazed.

Behind Ron: John Goldsmith on drums, Bryan McConnell with acoustic bass, pianist James Forkner. Goldsmith combines Blakey-type thunder with the humor and sensitivity of a Jimmy Cobb. The real item.

Those jam sessions at The Firehouse (Thursday and Saturday nights) just get better and better. Hosting bassist Norm Ross has been playing electric piano too — and writing originals that recall bop funksters like Horace Silver and Bobby Timmons.

Excellent musicians know they can have big fun over there — tenormen Les Rose and Mike Paglia, keyboardist Don Pendergrass, Goldsmith, Coolidge, tough soloists from Fort Ord, on and on. Who calls the tunes? "Everyone," says Norm. "I like it when contributors are comfortable and happy."

Owners Anne Batchelder and Ken Bales obviously enjoy what's happening. They report that Norm has the gig for as long as he wants it.

Meanwhile, manager Jack Mahoney from Monterey Bay Club says those TV Football Nights will be replaced by live jazz acts once the gridiron season ends. "We'll book bands in a steady manner, allowing followers of specific groups to predict when their favorites will be playing."

The Thursday spotlight will shine on Smith and Gail Dobson (1/3). Roger Eddy's band has the inventive David Kempton on keyboards (1/4-5).

Looking ahead, Richard Armbrust of Hidden Valley Music Seminars says the attractive spot will offer singer Bobbe Norris and pianist husband Larry Dunlap in February (2/8). And for March — New York bassist Harvie Swartz.

Harvie's usual duo partner: superbly swinging vocalist Sheila Jordan. He'll work with her or Brazilian singer Claudia Villela.

(Sheila's new CD on the Muse label has Harvie, pianist Kenny Barron, Ben Riley at his drums. Every track reflects her great soul and long experience. You'll hear bent notes but no false ones.)

Monterey Brewing Company continues its Sunday blues jams (3-8). Good times.

Over in Santa Cruz, Kuumbwa Jazz Center's first big show of 1991 will be Elvin Jones Jazz Machine (1/14). Center Stage Ticketing.

I NOTE THIS out of love and respect for the late jazz vocalist Carol Meldon. Managing editor David Zych of the national Jazz Times says my short novel about her will be serialized in that magazine.

David over the long-distance wire: "I can't say when — it could be many months away. We must build up the page count before introducing a literary section. I need some time; it will happen."

So now she's teaching me patience.

MISSION RANCH Barn was the place as some five dozen relatives and friends shared obvious happiness with KRML Jazz Radio honcho Gil Wisdom and wife Judith. Hosting the celebration were her parents — Julia and Henry Protzel. (Gil and Judi got married back in July. The December reception evidenced the educated tastes of event designers Steve and Marilyn Nergord.)

As might be expected, jazz groups provided tasty sounds — first the Dottie Dodgion Quartet with bassist Buddy Jones, keyboard pro Bobby Phillips, mellow flugelhornist Jackie Coon. Reedman Roger Eddy's unit had drummer Jimmy Baum, Terry Miller on electric bass, the aforementioned David Kempton. Flutist Kenny Stahl sat in with the latter group, dedicating an uptempo All the Things You Are to Judi and Gil.

Steve and Marilyn put together another of their remarkable buffet suppers. One didn't have to choose between the poached salmon and ginger-marinated flank steak; one got both. And the old truth held — parties give up more news than do hired flacks.

Jazz writer Grover Sales had mentioned a major project to KRML co-owner Alan Schultz. Alan said Grover and jazz critic Gene Lees were doing it for Warner Brothers — a survey of pianists on computer-compatible laserdiscs. That means commentary and bios of players ("from Scott Joplin to Bud Powell") could be punched up with musical examples and other visual material.

Then Eric Tonn of Monterey Peninsula Jazz orchestra said the popular aggregation had reached agreement with Mission Ranch Barn to play another year of Monday nights. After MPJO's brief vacation, the new season commences later this month (1/14).

Eric added that a packed schedule led pianist and composer Biff Smith to give up the conductor role. Tonn: "Biff will still bring in charts and lead us on occasion. Basically, the job will be shared by Les Rose and Steve Clickard."

In the near future, MPJO will record a cassette worth of originals by members. This'll be sold locally and shipped around to various labels as a demo.

Eric said MPJO's board will seek state and federal grants during 1991 so that workshops for school children may continue in good health. The Monday night door charge will hold at $4 per person.

But the biggest news was on the faces of Gil and bride. Peace and success to them.

PIANORAMATHON last month raised $700 at Shanty Malone's. Benefit organizer Bob Phillips said that amount would go to Pastor Sam Gaskins of Peninsula Outreach, which feeds homeless folks as part of its local agenda.

SRO crowds maintained their dimensions from noon till midnight on the special Sunday. More than 30 musicians — mostly jazz pianists — contributed skills. Vocalists showed up too.

"I'd like to thank them all," Bob said. "It was a worthwhile effort — and everyone performed very well."

Ace Jazz Buff Larry Storelli observed that "many, many listeners stayed the full 12 hours. I'd call the whole thing a smashing success."

UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS Press announces new jazz titles of worth, including Voices of the Jazz Age by New York writer Chip Deffaa. He profiles eight vintage players. Highlight: "the last months of Bix Beiderbeck's life from never-before-published letters written to his family."

Mark Tucker considers Duke Ellington's early years. Collected blues lyrics, Chicago Soul, Bud Freeman autobiography. The full catalogue may be requested via 1-800-545-4703.

KUSP-FM JAZZ broadcaster Larry Blood's show starts at 10 o'clock Tuesday nights. He has been featuring interview segments with artists who perhaps "delineate the shape of jazz to come." Future voices on the program: Michelle Rosewoman and Matthew Shipp (1/8), Dennis Gonzales (1/15), Ray Anderson and Julius Hemphill (1/22), Ralph Peterson Jr. and Craig Harris (1/29).

ORIGINALLY A sociology major at the University of Massachusetts, Robert Almeida became curious about the photographic process while he was still in college. His latest collection, entitled "Work in Progress," is the result of several years of concentrated effort in the field of traditional photography. His works can be viewed Jan. 4 through 31 at the Seaside City Hall Gallery. A reception for the artist is set 7 to 8:30 p.m. Friday, Jan. 11.

'Work in Progress' by lensman featured in Seaside show

WORK IN Progress, the most recent series of photographs by Robert Almeida, will be on exhibit at the Seaside City Hall Gallery from Jan. 4 until Jan. 31. Reception for the artist will take place on Jan. 11th from 7 to 8:30 in the evening.

Almeida's involvement with photography began 20 years ago when he became curious about the progress of recording those things which interested him. His early work, which he openly admits involved guesswork, was done strictly for pleasure. His equipment consisted of a second-hand Pentax camera which was purchased for $50 (and used for 15 years until it was stolen), and utilized only sporadically — sometimes no more than once or twice a year.

During his years as a sociology major at the University of Massachusetts, he spent a semester on a photography staff of the college newspaper, and it was in this capacity that he was exposed to printing techniques. Eventually six of his photographs were published in the school publication.

Even after his photographic experience at the university, Almeida used his camera only a few times a year, but during this time he became more and more interested in looking at photographs, in studying both black and white, and color prints, because of what he calls their "intense visual appeal."

But it wasn't until six years ago, after a debilitating injury, that Almeida became intensely interested in all aspects of photography, using it not only as a form of therapy but for sheer enjoyment. He thus began taking one class each semester at Palomar College in San Marcos.

Responding to encouragement from his teachers, and inspired by their work, Almeida developed more and more interest in learning the art of photography. He began seeking photo exhibits so as to actually study original prints. It was at this point that he developed a passion for traditional photography, an enthusiasm which has continued to flourish. His latest collection entitled "Work in Progress" is the result of several years of concentrated effort in that field.

The driving force behind Almeida's work is his fascination with the subject matter and the way in which light affects it. In fact, he will not photograph unless the light feels right to him. He's excited about the entire process of photography, from the anticipation of shooting, to the presentation of the final print.

His interests extend from the history of photography to the collecting of photographic books and prints. He is gratified when people take pleasure in the results of his work.

Almeida is inspired by the work of master photographers, such as Ansel Adams, Edward Weston, Brett Weston, Andre Kertesz, John Sexton, Morley Baer and Henry Gilpin. He is an active member of Friends of Photography and The Photographic Center in Carmel.

His recent work has been exhibited at the Photographic Showcase; Palomar College, San Marcos; Escondido City Hall, Escondido; and the Marjorie Evans Gallery in Carmel.

His latest work, which he considers only in progress, and thus the title "Work in Progress," can be seen at the Seaside City Hall Gallery during the entire month of January.

Watercolors by Dorothea Larsen exhibited at Evans Gallery

LOCAL WATERCOLORIST Dorothea Larsen will have her work on exhibit in the Sunset Center Marjorie Evens Gallery throughout January.

Before coming to Carmel 20 years ago, Larsen wrote newspaper and TV ad copy, as well as putting together brochures, publicity and PR for a San Francisco advertising agency with a wide range of high-visibility clientele.

Having recently studied painting with such California teachers and artists as Carmel's Nancy Johnson and Anita de Carlo, and Reedley's James Soares, A.W.S., N.W.S., she has developed into a sensitive artist with a unique sense of design and color that is particularly adaptable to portraits in watercolor which have proven to be popular locally.

She says "Almost anybody, any age, makes a good subject, adults and children alike..." During the past few years she has received several awards at the Monterey County Fair, Santa Cruz and the Annual Maui Fair.

She spends a part of each year in Hawaii on the island of Maui painting "the fantastically vivid flowers, seascapes, luscious landscapes and happy people." Examples of her Maui work are included in the upcoming show.

The Marjorie Evans Gallery is located in the Sunset Center Community and Cultural Center on San Carlos Street in Carmel. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

BICYCLING

Several scenic lengths of roadway offer pleasant bike riding without heavy traffic hazards. Part of the famous 17-Mile Drive in Pebble Beach is one.

On weekends, holidays and times of major sporting events, bicycle riders are permitted to enter the Pacific Grove gate only.

During normal weekdays, riders may enter any gate during daylight hours with no restricted route. Large groups of more than 10 should enter the Pacific Grove gate and follow the posted route for their own safety, three or four at a time. There is no gate fee for bicyclists, unless bikes are brought in by car. The fee per car is $5.75.

All riders are required upon entry to sign a permit and waiver form, regardless of gate or time of entry.

A particularly lovely part of the Monterey Peninsula is the Pacific Grove shoreline, with its white beaches, picturesque black rocks and beautiful plantings.

A spectacular, two-lane paved bicycle trail stretches for one mile along the craggy Pacific Grove shoreline from the Monterey Bay Aquarium to Lovers' Point. It is free and open to the public.

Carmel's Scenic Road is a short ride one way from north to south.

A bicycles-only path extends from the extreme north end of Seaside, past Fort Ord and all the way to Marina. Regular users of the trail consider it a beautiful trip.

All cities on the Monterey Peninsula permit bicycling on the public streets, subject to all traffic rules which apply to automobiles, including driving on the right, stopping at stop signs, signaling to turn, carrying lights at night and the like. Riding on sidewalks is not allowed.

A portion of the freeway - Highway 1 - can be used. It begins just north of Aquajito Road and parallels the freeway, ending just north of Reservation Road in Marina.

A wide shoulder suitable for bicycling has been constructed along Carmel Valley Rd., which turns off Highway 1 south of Carmel. However, this is only along the relatively short four-lane stretch. Farther up the Valley the road is two lanes and some of it could be risky for cyclists.

Experienced bicyclists point out, however, that riding is as safe as the cyclist and his bike make it for him. Observing the road rules, keeping himself in good physical trim for biking and keeping his wheels in good condition are pluses for safety.

Monterey Bay Aquarium

IT'S STATE-OF-THE-ART, affording an up-close and personal view of some 525 species of fishes, mammals, birds, invertebrates and plants found in Monterey Bay.

The Monterey Bay Aquarium, constructed "in the footprint" of the Hovden Cannery on the west end of Cannery Row — opened to the public in October 1984. A $50 million gift from David and Lucile Packard of Silicon Valley fame made into reality the conversion of a former cannery site into a celebration of colorful and complex Monterey Bay marine life, from sharks to brittlestars to sea otters.

Open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily except Christmas, the Monterey Bay Aquarium houses 23 major indoor and outdoor galleries and exhibits focusing on the many habitats of Monterey Bay. The aquarium is now a self-supporting, non-profit entity.

Rooflines and even lighting fixtures echo the original Cannery Row style documented by John Steinbeck in his 1945 novel of the same name. Visitors entering the aquarium walk past the original Hovden Cannery boilers, pumphouse and warehouse. These were virtually the only features that could be salvaged from the structure. The rest of the aquarium is new and strictly high-tech. Its 33 major exhibit windows, manufactured by Mitsubishi Rayon of Japan, include panels that are seven and one-quarter inches thick and weight 2.73 tons each. Two 16-inch diameter, 980-foot-long intake lines draw up to 2,050 gallons of sea water per minute from a depth of 55 feet in Monterey Bay. The seawater system permits varying levels of filtration — depending on the needs of the 6,500 specimens that live in the aquarium. These levels range from raw seawater to pressure-sand filtered, de-embolyzed seawater.

And then there are the animals. The Monterey Bay Aquarium is a place where visitors can gaze up into the cathedral-like branches of a kelp forest as a diver explains its intricacies from the other side of a seven-inch-thick window, stare eye-to-eye with a tank's worth of frisky sea otters and brave petting a bat ray that has no stinger.

Virtually all of its inhabitants can be found in Monterey Bay.

Also described by many as "a gawker," the third-of-a-million gallon Kelp Forest exhibit presents a diver's-eye view of a complex undersea community. The exhibit can be viewed from three levels within the aquarium, and houses a towering forest of Macrocystis pyrifera, the California coastline's giant kelp. Jets hidden in the rock-work walls and a surge machine maintain the constant water motion kelp requires. This seaweed, which locally grows up to 10 inches a day, forms a canopy open to the sunlight at the surface.

Also in the "gawker" category is the Monterey Bay Habitats exhibit, a 90-foot-long, hourglass-shaped tank that depicts four bay habitats: the deep reefs, sandy seafloor, shale reefs and the wharf. Large sharks, bat rays, salmon, striped bass and other open-ocean fishes roam the Monterey Bay exhibit. Viewers have a choice to observe the goings-on through bubble-shaped windows or a series of massive acrylic panes.

An interlocking series of habitat galleries and interpretive exhibits explores the facts, myths and mysteries of marine life in the region. Here the curious may study an elegant chambered nautilus hovering in mid-water, sleek and speedy squid, the giant octopus, hermit crabs, sand dollars and dozens of other oceanic denizens.

The Monterey Bay Aquarium operates many programs, including research and education. Approximately 100,000 persons are members, entitling them to unlimited admission, a newsletter, special programs and other benefits. For details, call the Membership Department, (408) 648-4880.

THIS 335,000 gallon exhibit represents a diver's view of a towering kelp forest community. As giant kelp needs sunlight and wave motion to survive, the 28-foot-high tank is open to the sky. Jets hidden in the rockwork and a surge machine maintain vital water movement.

The Monterey Bay Aquarium is located at 886 Cannery Row on its west end, between the borders of Monterey and Pacific Grove. Admission is $8 general, $5.75 for students and senior citizens (65 and over), $3.50 for children ages 3 through 12. Group rates for 20 or more are available by reservation. Call (408) 648-4860, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Tickets can also be pre-ordered through Ticketron outlets. There are no Ticketron outlets on the Monterey Peninsula, however.

All exhibits are wheelchair-accessible.

For recorded information about the aquarium, call (408) 648-4888.

For the convenience of aquarium visitors who have their own cars, parking is available at the Cannery Row Parking Garage. Rates are 75 cents per hour, up to a $5 maximum.

HOW THIS RAKE CAN SAVE YOUR LIFE.

This simple garden tool is a firefighter. It can help you clear away brush and leaves that act like kindling around your home. And you.

So if you live near the forest, do a little raking. And that's not all. Landscape your home with a fire retardant plant like ivy. Use spark arrester screens on your chimney and vents. And put fire retardant material on your roof and underneath your house where it is exposed. Because a forest fire burns more than trees.

Remember. Only you can prevent forest fires.
